Saturday final day of collection of city levy

Income tax termination set

The vote of the November general election was certified Monday night by the Fayette County Board of elections, and the repeal of the city income tax has been officially recognized.

As a result, the income tax will terminate Saturday. Despite the repeal, the tax remains in effect for five days following certification of the election results.

In addition, all tax monies assessed prior to the effective repeal date remain due in full. Each Washington C.H. resident and each non-resident employed in the city is responsible for paying a one per cent on his income from April 1 to Nov. 15.

Taxes for the second and third quarters (April-September) have been due since Sept. 30, and taxes for Oct. 1 through Nov. 15 are due Dec. 31. Contrary to the feelings of some, the past taxes are due in full.

According to state law, the city has the right to levy without voter approval any city income tax up to a full one per cent. Although the tax can be repealed as was done here, the obligation for taxes while the tax ordinance was in effect is in no way lessened.

According to city auditor Jack Stackhouse, some area residents are still delinquent for taxes due in 1971. These cases have been turned over to attorneys for collection, he said.

Most local employers have been deducting the income tax from payroll checks. The self-employed and those who are employed with firms in or out of the city which are not withholding the tax, will have to determine their income for this period and pay the one percent.

All residents should have already submitted a form stating either that their employer is withholding funds or giving an estimate of their income. They are to have begun paying the estimated tax quarterly. Any refund or additional charge will be assessed when their actual income returns are calculated at the conclusion of the year.

The city had collected almost $170,000 as of last week (the tax was imposed April 1) and Stackhouse said a sizeable number of tax payments have been received since that time. Although these payments were due Sept. 30, Stackhouse has been pleased that they are being paid without the need for prosecution.

With all the confusion which has surrounded the income tax, some delay is understandable, he said. He noted, however, that all taxes for the part of the fourth quarter covered by the tax are due by Dec. 31.

City officials emphasize that they see no illegality in the tax, and area residents will receive no refunds for the taxes already paid or still due during the remainder of the tax-effective period.

Nation could withdraw from assembly

U.S. blasts Zionism action

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate, responding quickly to the United Nations resolution labeling Zionism a form of racism, will reassess "the United States' further participation" in the world assembly.

Both houses of Congress, joining in a storm of American protest Tuesday, passed resolutions condemning the U.N. General Assembly action. The House, however, deleted the call for reassessment of U.S. participation.

President Ford also reacted strongly against the U.N.'s vote when he met with nine visiting members of the Israeli parliament in Washington. He called the Zionism resolution a "wholly unjustified action."

Later, speaking in Charlestown, W. Va., Ford said his administration will be "completely firm in our position" of opposing the resolution, though he did not spell out what reaction he would take.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said in Pittsburgh that "the United Nations will damage itself if it continues on this road" and added that the United States "will pay no attention" to the resolution against Zionism.

The criticism came after the U.N. assembly voted the anti-Zionism resolution Monday night by a vote of 72 to 35 with 32 abstentions and three nations absent. Zionism is the movement for a national Jewish homeland in Palestine; under the religious notion of "ingathering of tribes," Jews automatically become citizens upon arrival in Israel.

Religious organizations, including the World Council of Churches, condemned the assembly's vote. The World Council, which represents the world's major Protestant and Orthodox denominations, voiced "unequivocal opposition" to the resolution and appealed for reconsideration. The Vatican did not immediately comment on the vote.

Some 100,000 demonstrators in New York City's garment center blocked all traffic from 37th Street to Times Square along Seventh Avenue in protest of the vote.

In Washington, reaction in the Senate was swift and most damning.

By voice vote without dissent, the Senate passed the nonbinding resolution of condemnation after several members rose to denounce the action of the General Assembly.

Senate Majority leader Mike Mansfield said he considered the anti-Zionism resolution "not only offensive but outrageous."

The bipartisan resolution, introduced by Republican Leader Hugh Scott with more than 30 cosponsors, warned that the U.N. vote "encourages anti-Semitism by wrongly associating and equating Zionism with racism and racial discrimination."

It directs the Senate Foreign Relations and House International Relations committees to begin immediate hearings "to reassess the United States' further participation in the United Nations General Assembly."

A similar resolution was presented to the House for unanimous adoption. However, Rep. Robert W. Kastenmeier, D-Wis., blocked immediate consideration by asking for clarification as to whether it suggested U.S. withdrawal from the United Nations as a whole.

TO ALL AMERICAN VETERANS — The flagpole erected on the lawn of the Fayette County Historical Society Museum was dedicated Tuesday during Veteran's Day services. The granite base serves as a memorial to all American veterans who have served their country during its first 200 years.

In combined ceremony at museum

Flagpole dedicated in vet's day rites

One of the highlights of local Veteran's Day activities was the dedication of a granite-based flagpole on the lawn of the Fayette County Historical Society Museum.

The combined Veteran's Day ceremony which is usually held on the Courthouse lawn was held Tuesday evening at the museum. The pole and its base were dedicated to all veterans of American conflict during the country's 200-year history.

To symbolize the honoring of veterans during that span, the red granite base is carved with the American bicentennial emblem. The emblem appears in the full glory of its red, white and blue coloring.

Members of both local American Legion posts as well as the Washington Senior High School Naval Junior ROTC unit participated in a parade from the Paul H. Hughey American Legion hall on N. Fayette Street to the dedication site.

Former Fayette County Probate Court Judge Omar Schwart delivered the keynote address on the "Value of Freedom." He noted that the bicentennial and the celebration of Veteran's Day should impress upon every American the value of his personal freedom and the price his countrymen have paid to provide it.

Approximately 300 persons were present for the raising of the flag and the memorial salute. Two flags were presented for the dedication. One was an American flag which had been flown over the U.S. Capitol building in Washington D.C.; the other was an Ohio flag which had flown over the State Capitol in Columbus.

Congressman William H. Harsha and State Representative Bob McEwen assisted the local legion posts in obtaining the flags.

As Commander Paul Woods and members of the Civil Air Patrol unit raised the flag, the band played the "Star-Spangled Banner." Afterwards, the local Ohio National Guard unit firing squad offered a 21-gun salute.

The initial round of shots was fired from muzzle-loading rifles dating from the American Revolution to the Civil War. The second round was fired by trap-door model Springfield rifles used in the Indian wars during the settling of the West. The final shots were fired from modern military weapons.

In addition, some members of the firing squad were dressed in early military uniforms. Others wore tattered clothing to remind those in attendance that many soldiers fought without uniforms during the Revolutionary War.

The playing of taps closed the service, but many of the spectators lingered to read the inscription on the flagpole base:

Earlier in the day, memorial services were held on the Courthouse lawn by the Veterans of World War I.

Some 25 persons attended the brief service presented by the members of the local barracks and the women's auxiliary. The rites were held in front of the World War I memorial, and a wreath was placed there to commemorate those who gave their lives in "The War to End All Wars."

Approximately 120 American flags adorned the downtown Washington C.H. area throughout the day. They were placed in the parking meter posts by members of American Legion Post 25.

'Granny cop' gives up job after 9 years as 'victim'

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — After nine years of wearing dresses and nylon stockings to convince would-be muggers he was a little old lady, James McGrath is calling it quits.

McGrath, an original member of the Philadelphia police department's "granny squad," is retiring at age 50 because "you figure you're pushing your luck."

McGrath figures he was mugged about 50 times. He says he averaged three or four arrests a week in his garb and had a "100 per cent" conviction rate. He was never hurt except for minor bruises.

McGrath was a patrolman in 1966 when he volunteered for the special force that was formed in response to a wave of muggings and purse snatchings in the city.

The policemen dressed up as elderly ladies. Trained by large support crews, they walked the streets, trying to entice attacks by muggers.

After a time, recalls McGrath, "I could tell I was going to get hit. You develop a sixth sense. You're always well-covered but you've got to take the mugging."

"One night I was followed 43 blocks. I knew the guy wanted to go but he never did. That was a nerve-racking experience."

McGrath says the only time he failed to nab his assailant was once in 1967. "It was (due to) inexperience," he says. "The guy hit me going about 90 miles an hour. The backup team was across the street and he got away."

But all the robber got was a purse with a brick inside.

McGrath said he studied for the role. "I started to watch old ladies," he said. "You had to walk slow. You had to favor one leg. You had to go up and down a curb just so. Maybe it would take you 10 minutes to walk a block. You don't swing the pocketbook, you hold it steady."

WASHINGTON (AP) — As Arthur Burns and a Republican leader softened their opposition to federal aid for New York City, Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller hinted that President Ford also will reappraise his opposition if the city takes tough steps to get its finances in order.

And there were signs that officials of New York state and the financially ailing city were developing such a program to meet a Ford administration requirement that the city be placed on a sound financial footing.

Rockefeller told a news conference Tuesday in Austin, Tex., that "if the city did take steps and make the hard decision, then that would create a new circumstance ... something that he (Ford) had not anticipated."

"When a new situation develops under these circumstances, maybe there would be a reappraisal of the situation."

Ford's statements opposing federal aid to New York City often have contained language stressing that his opposition was limited to the factual situation existing at the time, leaving open the possibility he would change his mind if the circumstances changed.

A further clue that some arrangement was being worked out came Tuesday when Felix Rohatyn of the state's Municipal Assistance Corp. said of a meeting with Treasury Secretary William E. Simon and Burns, "I think we've accomplished something." He declined to say what Simon has been one of the most outspoken administration opponents of federal aid.

New York Gov. Hugh Carey is putting together a complex proposal involving higher city sales taxes, boosts in taxes on corporations and banks, and aid from banks and the federal government for the city.

Mayor Abraham D. Beame said Tuesday that an additional 8,374 employees will be trimmed from the city's payroll by June 30 as part of a plan to cut $200.7 million from the city's expense budget. About 35,800 of the city's 315,000 jobs have been lost as of Oct. 31 through layoffs and attrition this year, according to city officials.

In addition to Federal Reserve Board Chairman Burns, House Republican Leader John J. Rhodes of Arizona indicated he was shifting his view.

Burns said he will recommend federal help for New York City if the nation's financial markets begin "deteriorating noticeably." Burns told a meeting of the House Republican Conference that he is probably closer now than ever before to the belief that federal help will be needed for New York City, but he said he still has not concluded that help is necessary.

Rhodes told a news conference that he might modify what he called his "intransigent opposition" to any guarantee arrangement, whatever it might be.

Rhodes said he was talking about a situation in which the city would have established a financial plan getting its spending and revenue under control but still would need cash in the short term.

For continuance of programs here

Community Education grant received

MUNCIE, Ind. — An additional $1,500 grant has been awarded to the Community Education program in Washington C.H. for the continuance of programs being offered at the Washington C.H. Middle School building.

The seed money grant from the Institute for Community Education Development at Ball State University, Muncie, Ind., is the third of its kind the Community Education program in Washington C.H. has received since September, 1973.

The three grants received here total $5,500.

The money for the grant comes from the Mott Foundation, Flint, Mich., and is channelled to communities through the Institute for Community Education Development at Ball State University.

The Community Education programs in Washington C.H., offered since February, 1974, have involved approximately 13,000 Fayette County area residents, according to Hank Shaffer, Community Education program director here.

Shaffer was presented with the $1,500 grant check while he was at Ball State University attending a two-day seminar on community education councils. The seminar was sponsored by the Institute for Community Education Development at Ball State University and supported by the Mott Foundation.

PICKING UP THE CHECK — Hank Shaffer, right, Washington C.H. Community Education program director, receives a check for $1,500 as a grant from the Institute of Community Development at Ball State University. Dr. George Wood, a community education consultant, makes the presentation.

Deaths, Funerals

Mrs. Howard G. Stewart

Mrs. Georgianna Mark Stewart, 63, wife of Howard G. Stewart, of 4815 Ohio 753-S, near Good Hope, died at 11 a.m. Tuesday in Riverside Hospital, Columbus, following an illness of several months.

Born in Concord Township, Fayette County, she had spent her entire life here. Retiring this year as fourth grade teacher at Wilson Elementary School, she taught more than 40 years in Fayette County and at the Old Eastside School. She was a member of the Good Hope United Methodist Church, the Washington C.H. chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, and Major Samuel Myers chapter of the Daughters of 1812.

Surviving besides her husband, Howard G., is a sister, Mrs. Millard (Charlene) Weidinger of 6117 CCC Highway-W; her aunt, Mrs. Howard B. Fogle of 411 E. Temple St.; and an uncle, Albert Hamilton Rodgers of St. Petersburg, Fla.

Friends may call at the Gerstner-Kinzer Funeral Home from 2 to 9 p.m. Thursday, where services will be held at 1:30 p.m. Friday. The Rev. Earl Russell will officiate. Burial will be in Good Hope Cemetery.

Friends who wish may contribute to the Fayette County unit of the American Cancer Society.

Assembly eyes fuel clause bill

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Final action was expected in the Ohio House today on legislation that restricts use by utilities of a law that allows them to pass increased fuel costs along to consumers.

Majority Democrats also planned attempts to override Gov. James A. Rhodes' vetoes of measures establishing collective bargaining procedures for public employes, and providing for legislative review of rules and regulations adopted by state agencies.

The 99-member House, meeting for its first full session since Sept. 12, called for a vote on Senate amendments to the fuel clause bill, sending it to the desk of Gov. James A. Rhodes. Senators acted on it Oct. 21. They planned only a skeleton session today.

Although it guarantees no reductions in utility bills, the legislation requires closer monitoring of the use by Ohio's public utilities of the so-called fuel adjustment clause.

Among other things, it triggers a public hearing before the Public Utilities Commission when fuel adjustment increases accumulate to 15 per cent of their customers' bills over a six month period.

It further contains a provision for the utilities to supply information to the commission periodically about their fuel purchases, and to include on customers' bills the amount of their total that represents fuel cost adjustments.

Republicans stood united against the collective bargaining bill when majority Democrats pushed it through both chambers late last summer. Their objections, virtually the same as those voiced later by the governor, centered primarily around a provision that would give state employees a limited right to strike for the first time.

Rep. Thomas P. Gilmartin, D-57 Youngstown, sponsored the vetoed bill that would give the legislature the right to scrutinize rules and regulations adopted by a myriad of state agencies that now numbers nearly 200.

Under Ohio's Administrative Procedures Act, boards, commissions, and other agencies created by the legislature are able to adopt rules which have "the effect of law," Gilmartin complained.

Rep. Sherrod Brown, D-61 Mansfield, indicated he would forego his planned attempt to get the House to override a veto of his bill to provide nonbinding Ohioans with identification cards, at their request, for check cashing and other similar purposes.

Although Brown said he had the support of one Republican (Rep. John A. Galbraith, R-69 Maumee), his potential 60th vote, the freshman lawmaker said he understood not all of the chamber's 59 Democrats would be on hand. It takes a three-fifths majority of the House to override.

Brown said that since there is no statutory limit as to when a veto can be called up for consideration, he would probably wait and bring up his bill when the lawmakers convene their 1976 session in January.

Fear 29 sailors lost forever

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (AP) — Coast Guard officials heading the search for the sunken freighter Edmund Fitzgerald say they fear they may never recover the bodies of the ship's 29 crewmen from Lake Superior's frigid waters.

"Lake Superior very seldom coughs up her victims unless they're wearing life jackets," said Capt. Charles A. Millrad, commander of the Soo Coast Guard station. "As of this time, we have no reason to believe the men of the Fitzgerald had time to get into life jackets."

"The temperature of the water has a lot to do with it," said Chief Jere Bennett, "as well as whether or not they've been trapped. Generally, the warmer the water, the quicker they come up."

The lake currently is about 50 degrees, officials said.

A Coast Guard spokesman said the search effort was expected to be hampered greatly today by poor weather.

"They're forecasting 40-mile-per hour winds and six to 12-foot waves," the spokesman said. Visibility Tuesday was down to two miles.

The Fitzgerald apparently foundered and sank Monday night in Whitefish Bay in one of the most severe November storms in 35 years. She disappeared from sight shortly after 7 p.m., according to Capt. J. B. Cooper, master of the U.S. Steel Co. steamer Arthur M. Anderson. The Anderson was following several miles behind the Fitzgerald when she vanished.

Cooper told Coast Guard officials the Fitzgerald, skippered by Capt. Ernest McSorley of Toledo, Ohio, reported by radio it was taking on water in waves up to 30 feet and winds reaching 50 knots.

According to the Soo Coast Guard base, McSorley had told Cooper he was battling heavy seas and that he had been taking on some water. McSorley also reported a slight list, but was certain his pumps could handle the excess water.

Cooper told the Coast Guard the last trace he had of the Fitzgerald was via radar. Then the ship suddenly vanished, he said, without even a distress signal.

Cooper refused Tuesday, however, to talk with newsmen.

"I don't know why the captain of the Anderson hasn't made a statement," said Bennett. "Maybe he's shook as to what he saw."

After spending a Monday night and Tuesday morning vigil in the area where the Fitzgerald disappeared, Cooper sailed the Anderson through the Soo locks, anchored her in the St. Mary River, and spent the remainder of Tuesday ashore, huddled with U.S. Steel executives.

"The company may be reluctant to have him talk because of litigation that might come of this through next of kin of missing crewmen," Capt. Millrad said.

The Fitzgerald is believed to have gone down in about 350 feet of water some 12 miles north of a lighthouse on Whitefish Point and about eight miles due east of Coppermine Point on the Canadian shore.

FOP group raps police probe

CINCINNATI (AP)—Local 69 of the Fraternal Order of Police said it would make "no gratuitous offers" of evidence as a special grand jury resumed a probe of wrongdoing in the Cincinnati Police Division today.

Sessions were suspended Tuesday because of the Veterans Day holiday.

Donald Hardin, FOP attorney, said that while the organization would not go out of its way to help the probe, Hamilton County Prosecutor Simon Leis Jr. "will get about anything he asks for. If he asks, we'll talk and respond," said Hardin.

Hardin said the decision followed a meeting of the executive board of the FOP.

Hardin said he referred to a report that someone in the FOP suggested the organization's typewriters be turned over to show that the controversial anonymous letter that launched the probe did not come from that organization.

"It sickens me that these accusations are being made," Hardin said of the letter. "They're completely unfounded."

He said no individual had been named but said some accusations in the controversy over who wrote the letter center on the FOP.

"This accusation business is getting completely out of hand. The FOP executive board did not author the letter. There is nothing there with the FOP involved in it."

The letter, which indicated it was composed by seven police officers, accused high ranking officers of using the vice squad to collect bribes in return for a "hands off" policy at specified taverns, misuse of overtime assignments to build up slush funds, and use of on-duty officers to perform work on private property.

Two police district commanders were reassigned "voluntarily" and one of them asked for an early retirement in the wake of the probe.

The letters were sent to Leis, City Councilman Guy Guckenberger, two daily newspapers and a television broadcaster.

Hamilton County Common Pleas Court Judge Frank S. Gusweiler told the special panel to indict the letter writers if the allegations proved untrue. However, if true, the jurors are to return indictments against any officials who they believe might be involved, Gusweiler said after appointing a nine-member jury plus five alternates. Gusweiler said the probe would probably go beyond the first of the year.

While the FOP claimed no involvement in the letter, FOP President Elmer Dunaway reported he earlier asked Police Chief Carl Goodin to investigate possible mishandling of slush funds. Goodin confirmed an inhouse investigation had been partially complete. That investigation was stopped and the material was sent to the prosecutor.

Wallace bills self as 'people's choice'

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Gov. George C. Wallace, billing himself as "the people's choice," officially announced his bid for the Democratic presidential nomination today with scorn for his party's leadership and a promise of an active campaign in the 1976 primaries.

"It is time we offer that great middle class someone they can vote for and not against. With your help, that is what I shall do during this campaign," the wheelchair-bound Wallace said. He said the "average middle class citizen" has been ignored by the national Democratic party and "is fed up and has been voting against the far left positions of the national party nominees and platforms."

Wallace said that in the past "the national Democratic party has allowed itself to be taken over by the exotic left." He vowed an active primary campaign to alter the party hierarchy and win the nomination.

Aides said the only primary he probably would not take part in would be the first in the nation, New Hampshire.

"I am, in my opinion and as supported by many of the polls, the leading candidate for this nomination," the partially paralyzed governor said as he formally launched his fourth race for the White House.

Wallace recalled two of his earlier campaigns and their slogans — "Stand Up For America" in 1968, and "Send Them A Message" in 1972.

"Now, in 1976," he said, "we ask for 'Trust In The People' and let's put some people leadership in the Democratic party ... and some people leadership in the White House in Washington."

"Let's win the presidency in 1976 by offering the people's choice as the nominee of the Democratic party."

Senators in accord

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio, and John Glenn, D-Ohio, both voted with the majority Tuesday when the Senate agreed to limit debate on the motion to consider a bill giving building trades unions the power to close down an entire construction site in a dispute with subcontractors.

Police probe burglary

Deputies seeking escaped prisoner

An escaped prisoner is being sought by the Fayette County Sheriff's Department.

Sheriff Donald L. Thompson reported Max E. Groves, 38, of Wilmington, was serving time in jail on a driving while intoxicated charge when he asked to sit outside on the front steps of the sheriff's department office last Friday. Because he was a trustee of the jail and allowed special privileges, jailer-dispatcher Steve Hedges granted the request. When Hedges went to call Groves in so he could start serving meals to other prisoners, he was nowhere to be found. Anyone having information as to Groves' whereabouts should contact the sheriff's depart-

Washington C.H. police officers reported a burglary and a larceny today.

The P. Hagerty Co., 303 Van Deman St., was burglarized sometime Tuesday night by someone who used a pry bar to gain entry through the back door. Police reported several suits and coats taken.

A calculator valued at $160 belonging to Danny C. Dean, 507 Frank St., was stolen from the football team locker room at Washington Senior High School sometime between 10:45 a.m. Friday and 8 a.m. Monday. Police reported the serial number on the calculator as 023407.

Hearst lawyers plan change

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patricia Hearst's lawyers have indicated they might change strategy and drop protests of her Dec. 15 trial date if a judge's ruling goes against them later this month.

Miss Hearst's next date in court is Nov. 20 when the attorneys are to argue for a delay in the trial. Until Tuesday, there had been indications her lawyers would appeal if U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter refused to postpone the trial.

However, chief defense lawyer F. Lee Bailey emerged from a private meeting with Carter Tuesday and replied "I don't think so" when asked if he would appeal a denial of continuance.

His partner, Albert Johnson, added, "We haven't decided that yet." Johnson has been Miss Hearst's principal spokesman in court.

"There is nothing to appeal before Nov. 20th," said Bailey, who flew here from Boston after Carter's ruling on Monday that Miss Hearst is competent to stand trial on bank robbery charges.

Miss Hearst's lawyers are expected

stays home

MOSCOW (AP) — Nuclear physicist Andrei Sakharov said today he has been denied permission by Soviet authorities to travel to Oslo to personally receive the Nobel Peace Prize.

Sakharov told newsmen immediately after his meeting with a passport official that he was denied permission because he possesses state secrets.

The Nobel Committee cited Sakharov, one of the pioneer developers of the Soviet hydrogen bomb, for his vigorous fight on behalf of civil rights in the Soviet Union.

Sakharov, 54, said he immediately issued a protest to the passport official. He said he considered the denial "offensive to me and to the Nobel Committee."

Sakharov said he regarded the decision as a flagrant violation of the principles set forth in the Aug. 1 Helsinki Declaration which calls for the free movement of people and ideas across East-West borders.

Sakharov said he did not plan to appeal the decision and that he considered it a closed question on the part of the highest Kremlin authority.

Deputies charge man with theft

A Florida man has been arrested by the Fayette County Sheriff's Department and charged with vehicle theft.

Fayette County Sheriff Donald L. Thompson reported Deputy Charles Wise observed a stolen El Camino parked at Garner's Union 76 truck stop, U.S. 35 and I-71, at 11:30 p.m. Tuesday. John C. Shakespeare II, 27, had allegedly taken the vehicle, owned by the Scott Contracting Co., Miami, Fla., on Nov. 2. He is being held at the Fayette County jail in lieu of $2,500 bond.

Cookbook report heard by grange

NEW MARTINSBURG — It was announced during the meeting of Forest Grange No. 368 that the cookbooks from the National Grange have arrived.

They are ready for distribution, and any area resident interested in obtaining one of the bicentennial cooking guides should contact Mrs. Russell Grice.

Honored for outstanding work within the grange were Mrs. Maurice Sollars, Mrs. Grice, Miss Louise Ritter and Mrs. Robert Bock. Deputy master Richard Carson presented each with a ribbon symbolizing the grange's appreciation.

In other business, the members of the grange were asked to bring some useful item to the next meeting so that a Christmas basket may be prepared for a needy Fayette County family, and Winfred Morgan, John Wing and Nathaniel Tway were named to the auditing committee.

The literary program on "Thanksgiving" was presented by Miss Louise Ritter. The articles read by grange members included a discussion of Thanksgiving in Canada and an explanation of the Horn of Plenty.

The meeting was closed with a review of Indian heritage and a prayer.

By The Associated Press

Mild weather continued across the state overnight, but a change apparently is in the wind.

Temperatures around sunrise were mainly in the 40s and 50s usually the highs for this time of year.

Cloudiness began to increase during the night and a few showers fell in the upper Ohio Valley this morning. The precipitation was to become more numerous and widespread today.

A cold front was expected to move through Ohio today, bringing cooler temperatures lowering well into the 30s by Thursday morning. A few light snow flurries are likely in the northern counties tonight and Thursday and it will be partly cloudy in the south. Highs Thursday will remain in the 40s.

The main winter storm is in the upper Great Lakes this morning and will move eastward during the day. Although the winds will increase considerably, the main brunt of the storm will remain well north of Ohio.

Fair Friday, a chance of showers Saturday and fair again Sunday. Highs in the 50s and low 60s. Lows in the 30s and low 40s.

Anchor Hocking sets new plant

LANCASTER, Ohio (AP) — Anchor Hocking Corp. said today it will build a plant in Newark to produce corrugated shipping boxes for use by its glassware manufacturing plants in Ohio and surrounding states.

The plant, when fully operational, will employ about 50 people. It will be built on a 10-acre tract in the Newark Corporate Park.

Construction is expected to begin before the end of the year with completion anticipated in late 1976.

'Record Hop' planned by Alpha

Mrs. Clyde Cramer welcomed the Alpha Theta Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha to her home for the induction of pledges Mrs. Bill Marting, Mrs. Ron Warner and Mrs. Chuck Wisler. Mrs. Ron Ratliff and Mrs. Jerry Hoppes led the pledges in repeating their vows.

During the business meeting, Mrs. Mick Barker, philanthropic chairman, discussed several items with the group. Committees were announced for the annual benefit dance to be held in January, to feature a record hop, reminiscent of the 1950's. Jockey Joe Kelly will be the disc jockey.

Members were reminded to bring in food for the Thanksgiving basket to be given to a needy family. The group also decided to sponsor the Blood Bank June 1.

Following the meeting a dessert course was served to Mrs. Barker, Mrs. Cramer, Mrs. Don Gibbs, Mrs. John Gruber, Mrs. Dick Hill, Mrs. Jerry Hoppes, Mrs. Ray Loudner, Mrs. Charles McIlvaine, Mrs. Jack Merriman, Mrs. Jack Moats, Mrs. John Morris, Mrs. Jim Oughterson, Mrs. Tom Rankin, Mrs. Ratliff, Mrs. Mike Vrettos, Mrs. Rich Wood, Mrs. Fred Zechman, Mrs. Warner, Mrs. Marting and Mrs. Wisler.

Sunny-East Homemakers

A potluck supper and holiday auction took place in the home of Mrs. Allen O. McClung Tuesday evening, when members of the Sunny-East Homemakers Club assembled at 6:30 p.m. Assisting hostesses were Mrs. Bernard Huffman and Mrs. Jo Ann Baughn. Mrs. Huffman gave the invocation preceding the meal.

The business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Robert Climer, when it was voted to give a donation of $5 to the Washington Middle School for the defray of expenses for the musical, "Hats Off," to be presented Nov. 21 at 7:30 p.m. Members also voted to sponsor two persons for the "Meals on Wheels" program and "adopted" a person to remember during the holidays with surprise card showers.

Mrs. McClung was auctioneer for the sale which followed. The club netted approximately $25.

Those present were the co-hostesses, Mrs. McClung and Mrs. Huffman, Mrs. Roy Yahn, Mrs. Dwight Foy, Mrs. Willard Greer, Mrs. Robert Climer, Mrs. Donald Belles and Mrs. Robert W. Fries.

Newlyweds to reside in Florida

Miss Phyllis K. Hunt became the bride of Roger Binegar in a double ring ceremony at 6:30 p.m. Nov. 7, in the Church of Christ in Christian Union, with the Rev. Stan Toler officiating.

A reception took place in Fellowship Hall following the wedding.

The new bride is a 1975 graduate of Miami Trace High School, and her husband graduated from MTHS in 1974.

The young couple will make their home in Homosassa Springs, Fla., where Mr. Binegar is associated with his father, Ronald Binegar, and uncle Earl Binegar in the "Springs Ice Service."

Kensington Club names nominating committee members

Bloomington Kensington Club met in the home of Mrs. Lawrence Garinger. Twelve members were present, when Mrs. Laura Hughes and Mrs. Dorothea Slager were named to the nominating committee. They will present a slate of candidates for officers at the next meeting.

Mrs. William Rockhold opened the meeting by reading, "Remember." Various reports were made and cheer cards signed for Mrs. Anna Groff, Mrs. W.P. Noble and Mrs. Ilo Larrimer.

Plans for the December meeting will be announced later. A gift exchange will be featured.

The roll call was responded to with readings: Mrs. Jean Brown—"Keep on Keeping On;" Mrs. Joe Elliott—"The Voice That Beautifies;" Mrs. Mary Haines—"Leaves;" Mrs. Hughes—"Lord, Thou Knowest I'm Growing Old;" Mrs. Garinger—"The Wilderness is Tamed;" Mrs. Gibeau—"Veteran's Day (written by her granddaughter, Miss Ellen Thompson);" and Mrs. Rockhold closed with a Thanksgiving article entitled "Grateful."

Members were seated around the dining room table for refreshments served by the hostess. Others present were Mrs. Margaret Bloomer, Mrs. Viola Thornton, Mrs. Forest Baughn and Miss Medrith Whiteside.

GAR plans election at Yuletide party

Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic, No. 25, met at the Sulky Restaurant, when a dessert course was served preceding the meeting. A Thanksgiving motif prevailed in the favors and centerpiece. Co-hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. Lawrence Black, Mrs. Herbert Hoppes and Miss Etha Sturgeon.

Mrs. Nona Stevens, chaplain read "One Nation Under God," for devotions, when the meeting was opened in Ritualistic form by Mrs. Hoppes. Reports were made by Mrs. Walter Parrett, and a report of the visiting committee was made for Miss Sturgeon, Mrs. Minnie Smith and Mrs. W.P. Noble.

A nominating committee consisting of Mrs. Parrett, Miss Florence Purcell and Mrs. Black was announced. Election of officers will take place at the Christmas party, Dec. 5, at the Sulky Restaurant, at noon. A gift exchange of not over 50c will be featured.

The group made a donation of $10 to the Ohio Soldiers and Sailors Orphanage at Xenia and a discussion took place regarding the purchase of a flag for the proposed newly restored one room schoolhouse.

Those present were Mrs. Gene Carman, Mrs. Stevens, Mrs. Hoppes, Mrs. Lawrence Black, Mrs. Parrett, Mrs. Harry Bell, Mrs. Martha Pfeifer, Mrs. Frances Toops, Mrs. Ralph Hays, Mrs. Frank Thompson, Miss Florence Hidy and Miss Florence Purcell.

MISS ELLEN SCHRECKENGAUST

Engagement announced

Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Schreckengaust of 930 E. Temple St., have announced the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Ellen, to Lloyd Gilpen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gilpen of 721 Campbell St.

The couple will be married at 2:30 p.m. Dec. 6 in an open church ceremony in the Church of Christ in Christian Union. The Rev. Stan Toler will officiate for the double-ring ceremony.

Miss Krieger returns home from 4-H Fashion Board meet

A Fayette County 4-H'er, Gretchen Krieger, 17, Rt. 1, Jeffersonville, has just returned from the fall meeting of the 1976 Ohio State 4-H Fashion Board.

Eleven members of the 4-H Fashion Board are selected from county candidates at the Ohio State Fair 4-H Style Revue. Selection is based on fashion know-how, modeling skill, and leadership ability. Another teenager — the Ohio 4-H clothing project winner — will also serve on the board. The 12 Fashion Board members represent more than 40,000 4-H'ers who participate in Ohio 4-H clothing projects. The fashion board is supported by the Ohio State Fair.

Gretchen is a senior at Miami Trace High School, and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Krieger.

1 cup dry or sweet white wine

1½ cups sliced thawed frozen strawberries (unsw/etened)
In a medium mixing bowl, turn the gelatin; add the boiling water; stir until dissolved; stir in wine. Chill until slightly thickened, stirring a few times. Fold in strawberries. Turn into six ½-cup molds or custard cups; chill until set. Unmold. Makes 6 servings.

TURNIP PUFF

Really delicious way to serve the rutabaga.
2 yellow turnips (each about 1 pound), pared and cut in 1-inch cubes (about 3 cups)
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 egg, slightly beaten
2 tablespoons light brown sugar
¼ teaspoon pepper

Cover the rutabaga with about 1 inch of boiling water and add the salt; boil, covered, until tender — about 20 minutes. Drain well and mash. With a spoon beat in the butter, then the egg, sugar, and pepper. Turn into a buttered 1-quart round casserole (about 6½ by 2½ inches). Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven for 30 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

Youth Activities

YOUTH LEADERSHIP

The meeting of the Junior Leadership was called to order by Scott Gerber. Terry Helsel led the pledges. Minutes were read by Loretta Braun, and Tammy Johnson gave the treasurer's report. Dues are $1.

Jack Sommers told all what Junior Leadership is all about, and everyone introduced themselves. It was decided meetings will be held the fourth Wednesday of each month.

4-H committee representatives were chosen. They are Fred Melvin and Sue Mitchell. The program committee is composed of Debbie Cremeans, Marcia Markel, Barb Johnson, Bruce Ervin, Sam Grooms, Don Davis, Jeff Harper and J.T. Perrill. The fund raising committee is composed of Tammy Johnson, Alan Anchutz, Betsy Drake, Chris Garland, Jeff Wilt and Trula Dennis.

The meeting was adjourned by Don Davis and Jim McCoy.

Introducing . . .

By KIM CONLEY

What is the recipe for a really successful class? Well it takes a pinch of the modern, a dash of the traditional and a lot of understanding. One of Miami Trace High School's new teachers combines just the right amount of these ingredients to come up with a super recipe for teaching. Her name is Ruth Leese and she teaches freshman and sophomore English in addition to grammar at Eber Junior High School.

Her hobbies include sewing and music, she is a big fan of John Denver's. Ms. Leese grew up around the Cleveland area and graduated from Ohio State University. She has one sister who is attending Ohio University in Athens, majoring in music therapy.

Her classes are ones of student participation and discussion. She believes any class is better if the students participate and try to make a class more interesting. She also believes that if the students would realize that teachers are human and vice versa and treat them that way that school would be a better place for everyone involved.

RUTH LEESE

Ms. Leese had this comment about Miami Trace, "I've enjoyed my experiences here so far and I hope that this will be a good year for both myself and my students."

Society eyes fund-raiser

By SHERYL PENDLETON

Attention! How would you like to help raise money for a worthwhile organization? You can by purchasing turkey raffle tickets from any Miami Trace National Honor Society member.

Tickets are on sale now, through the weekend prior to Thanksgiving. They are 25 cents per ticket or three tickets for 50 cents. The drawing will be held on Monday, Nov. 24. Winners will be notified on that day. The grand prize winner will receive a turkey and a fruit basket. Two runner-up winners will each receive a turkey.

The Miami Trace chapter of the National Honor Society would like to recognize and thank the following stores for their generous donations:

FHA sponsors skating party

By DIANE BURKE

The Miami Trace chapter of Future Homemakers of America sponsored a skating party on November 10, 1975 at the Roller Haven skating rink.

There were many cake walks enjoyed by a large crowd of skaters. Everyone had a fine time.

The chapter officers would like to thank everyone who helped with the preparation of the skating party, as the money will be used for sponsoring a FHA banquet in the spring and also for decorations for the annual Sweetheart Dance.

Entire cast from fall play

Rehearsals ending for MT fall play

By DENISE BEODDY

This weekend marks the end of weeks of rehearsal for the fall play "Adrift in New York" which will be presented Friday and Saturday evenings at 8 p.m. in the Miami Trace auditorium. The price is $1.75 for adults, $1.25 for students — kindergarten through college.

The play is a melodrama. This is a production that revolves around three main characters: the hero, the villain, and the innocent young girl. It is like an old time movie in which the villain ties the young girl to a railroad track with the train getting closer and closer. At the last possible moment, she is saved by the hero, and the villain is "foiled again."

Don Eyre plays the villain, Desperate Desmond. Desmond is "a true villain, evil all the way through, except when he puts on a gentlemanly act for Nellie," Don says. "I really like the part because I rarely get a chance to show the evil in me!" he adds. Don was a member of the quartet in "Music Man", and had a lead in last year's fall play. He is a sophomore, and a member of Folksingers, FFA, Dramatic Arts, AFS, basketball, 4-H, and White Oak MYF.

Denise Gilbert plays the unsuspecting girl, Nellie Weston. She describes her character as "an innocent girl who tries to act sophisticated but comes across as childish." She says, "It is a fantastic play and is super-funny. I just hope everyone will come." Denise is a freshman and is a member of Dramatic Arts and Concert band. She enjoys reading, embroidery, and swimming.

Brent Knisley plays everyone's hero, Jack Merriwell. Jack is a poor but honest man "who would give his heart's blood for Nellie." Brent says, "I really love my part because I get all the hugs and kisses." Brent also was in "Music Man" last spring. He is a sophomore, and he plays baseball and basketball.

There are many other members of the cast. Joel Boylan plays Silas Weston, Lisa Melvin plays Aunt Sarah Weston, Lynne Acton plays Martha Weston, Mike Camstra plays Hi Perkins. In Act II, Ross Brown plays Dan Fogarty, Martha Reno plays Sadie Mae, Jeff Satterfield plays Monty Moran, Jay Pendleton plays Old Mag, Alan Thompson plays Slick McCoy, and Sue Mitchell plays Lillian Morrison. There also are the dancers: Leora Burdige, Cheryl Blue, Cindi Grover, Michelle Sigman, Sheila Bach, Alisa Hughes, Sherry Frazier, and Debbie Thompson. There are some people who have small parts throughout the second act. They are Teresa Moore, Jan Montgomery, Stanley Burnett, and Fred Melvin.

The play is directed by Marie Marshall. Terry Thompson is the student director; Cassandra Delay is the pianist.

These people have really worked hard, so come to the play and give them your support. They deserve it.

Hidys Food, Great Scot, Jeff Royal Blue, and Enslen's Market.

Proceeds from the raffle will go for membership pins and to help finance money-making projects for scholarships for seniors.

Plant blast case lawyer warned

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Testimony in the Sponge Rubber Products Co. arson trial was interrupted Tuesday by warnings from U.S. District Court Judge Jon O. Newman to a defense attorney to keep his questions relevant.

Nine men are charged with plotting to dynamite the company's $10 million Shelton plant March 1 for insurance profits.

The first disruption came as defense attorney Rudolph Zalowitz was cross-examining an FBI agent who claimed to have found incriminating fingerprints of four defendants in the case.

The lawyer, who represents the Rev. David N. Bubar of Memphis, Tenn.,

Certain candles may cause fires

MASSILLON, Ohio (AP) — Certain types of sand-cast candles can cause fires, the fire department says. It said a $9,000 blaze in a basement recreation room Oct. 27 was probably caused by a sand-cast candle suspended by twine over a wood counter.

When the wick burned through the base the bottom dropped out, Capt. Jack Darnell said. The candles are made by placing sand in a form, inserting a wick and pouring in hot wax.

The candles are often made by home craftsmen and sold at street fairs. Darnell said there is no way to tell without cutting them apart if the candles have a fireproof base.

OFBF to launch drive on crime

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Farm Bureau will launch a rural crime-fighting project Wednesday in Marion County, contacting more than 6,000 rural residents in seven days.

The project results from the bureau's year-long study of crime in nine counties. It is called "hardening the target."

Door-to-door calls will be made by 600 volunteers who will stress the need to keep homes and buildings locked, mark valuables with an identification mark and provide adequate lighting to discourage criminals.

"Rural crime is increasing at a rate of 27 per cent a year and that's even faster than in the city," said Ned Musselman, the bureau's rural crime coordinator. "We think that by taking a few simple precautions, rural people can go a long way toward solving the rural crime problem themselves."

Auto demolished in early morning mishap

A Sabina woman's auto was demolished early Wednesday morning when it struck a guardrail on the CCC-Highway-W, two and a half miles west of Washington C.H. and flipped over on its top.

Fayette County Sheriff's Deputy Dave Krupla reported the driver of the car, Melody A. Ginerich, 31, of Sabina, showed visible signs of injury at the accident scene and was taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital. She was treated for a sprained wrist and released. The accident occurred at 3:25 a.m. Wednesday and Mrs. Ginerich was charged with no operator's license.

The sheriff's department reported two additional traffic mishaps today and Washington C.H. police officers reported one accident.

An accident on Ohio 41-N, two-tenths miles south of Jeffersonville, occurred at 1:25 p.m. Tuesday and involved a semi-truck driven by Harvey J. Rehfeldt, 37, Sioux Falls, S.D., and a car driven by Raymond D. Fraizer, 24, of South Solon. Sheriff's deputies stated the Fraizer auto attempted to pass the semi and the semi started to pass an unidentified vehicle, running Fraizer off the road and into a utility pole. Fraizer's passenger, Rene G. Fraizer, 23, South Solon, claimed injury from the mishap, but was not treated according to hospital employees at Fayette Memorial. The semi driver was charged with traveling left of center.

A car driven by Glenda E. Brown, 25, Jamestown, owned by B and B Auto Sales, Jamestown, was damaged when a vehicle traveling west on U.S. 35, two miles east of the I-71 intersection kicked up a stone which shattered the Brown auto's windshield. The mishap occurred at 4:45 p.m. Tuesday and sheriff's deputies reported no injury.

An accident at 11:55 p.m. Tuesday, occurred on Ohio Avenue near the Main Street intersection, city police reported. Cars driven by Margery M. Stiffler, 29, of U.S. 22, and John R. Stiffler, 34, of 1222 S. Hinde St., stopped in the street so the drivers could talk. An argument developed and an accident ensued, police reported no injuries.

Ohio justices hear open trial appeal

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The issue of a free press vs. a fair trial was argued Tuesday before the Ohio Supreme Court in connection with the order of a trial judge in Dayton to bar the public from pretrial hearings in a murder-kidnap case.

The justices, who noted that their decision will affect trials throughout the state and is not limited to the Lester C. Emoff case, gave no indication when a decision would be issued.

A request that the trial court's order be rescinded was filed by Dayton Newspapers, Inc., publisher of The Journal Herald and Dayton Daily News. Chester Finn, attorney for Dayton Newspapers, said his client was seeking a decision before the issue in this case is moot.

Montgomery County Common Pleas Judge Stanley S. Phillips, whose order was upheld by the state 2nd District Court of Appeals last week, began the hearings on motions to suppress evidence and statements Tuesday and was expected to resume them today.

Harry Jeffrey, an attorney representing Phillips, told the justices the judge's "paramount duty" is to assure a defendant a fair trial.

INJURY ACCIDENT — This car driven by Melody A. Ginerich, 31, Sabina, struck a guardrail on the CCC-Highway-W, two and a half miles west of Washington C.H., flipped on its top and slid 93.6 feet before stopping in the middle of the roadway. Ms. Ginerich was injured in the mishap and treated at Fayette Memorial Hospital for a sprained wrist. Fayette County Sheriff's deputies cited her for no operator's license. The mishap occurred at 3:25 a.m. Wednesday.

Home loan nomination in trouble

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Banking Committee is voting on the nomination of a former Georgia congressman to head the Federal Home Loan Bank Board amid signs the nominee may lose because of criticism of his civil rights record.

Banking Committee Chairman William Proxmire, D-Wis., announced Tuesday he will vote to reject the nomination of Ben B. Blackburn, 48, an Atlanta Republican, because he believes Blackburn is "absolutely 1,000 per cent wrong" in declaring that voting is not a right but a privilege that should be qualified by some form of literacy test.

"This position that voting is not a right is a disqualifier right there," Proxmire told the committee. "I don't see how we could vote for a man with his views."

Sen. Joseph Biden, D-Del., said he also cannot vote to support the nomination.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board can influence the amount of home mortgages available to minorities through its regulation of the savings and loan industry and its administration of the Fair Housing Act.

Blackburn voted against all civil rights bills to come before the House during his three terms and voted against the fair housing bill.

Biden said it is not enough for Blackburn to promise that, if confirmed, he will carry out the law.

"In an era where discrimination continues to exist in housing and the mortgage market, it's imperative to have in the post of chairman someone who has a sensitivity to these problems," Biden said. "From both his testimony and his voting record, I do not believe that Mr. Blackburn possesses those qualities."

Blackburn returned to the witness table late Tuesday to tell Sen. Edward W. Brooke, D-Mass., that the difference between a "right" and a "privilege" is only "semantic" and that what he had really meant to say was that voting was a qualified right.

Brooke replied, "In all fairness to you, Mr. Blackburn, I don't think our differences were semantic. I was attempting to determine your fitness to serve.... I was trying to determine if you actually believe what you said.... I think the record is crystal clear."

Earlier, a series of witnesses either defended or attacked Blackburn's voting record and public statements about civil rights, consumer and anti-poverty legislation.

Vernon E. Jordan Jr., executive director of the National Urban League, complained about Blackburn's now-famous offhand remark during the drafting of a bill in the House Banking Committee that "public hangings" would encourage tenants of public housing projects to pay their rent on time.

Blackburn has testified he cannot remember making the remark even though it is quoted in the official transcript and even though he has been quoted by an Atlanta newspaper as later telling a reporter he meant it only as a joke.

The McCook House on the square at Carrollton, Ohio, is a partial restoration of the home of the "Fighting McCooks" of Civil War fame.

Letters from readers of The Record-Herald

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

City Council is showing the voters and taxpayers their powers by trying to pass this $24,600,000 sewer project. They have not given us one figure and stuck by it.

They have come out and raised our sewer rates twice and both times they have misinformed us about it. Now they want to come right back with the grand slam of all such duplication, and this is very unfair to the citizens of Washington C.H.

Not long ago, they said they were going to replace our parking meters, but did they tell us that they were getting 119 more than we had. They lowered the time and upped the price. Then they turned around and upped the parking fines even after a lot of the businesses went to Council and opposed. I can go on and on for I have copies of the Record-Herald to prove it.

Now here comes Record-Herald reporter Mr. George Malek saying he is coming out with a series of articles about our sewers. I ask Mr. Malek, is he qualified to do so? I happen to know that he was a police officer before he went to work for the paper, so where is he getting his information?

In the Record-Herald September 27, 1975, he wrote, and I quote, "City solons confused over sewer proposals. Now I ask you how can a reporter and a council that is confused give us the right answers.

I personally think that some one is trying to give us a white-wash job. It has come to my attention that the business men are holding meetings in one of our banks with Bird and Bull and the EPA. Do they also think that they are qualified to tell us, the voters and taxpayers, what to do?

Well I think I can tell them it is the working people and those on fixed incomes that keeps them going. I say it is time the voters and taxpayers have some say and not be their slaves like they think.

I say that our City Council has never represented the voters and taxpayers. The only think that they have done is misinformed and misled and did just the opposite of what we wanted.

I feel that if City Council is not going to represent the voters and taxpayers, I respectfully think they all should resign. It is like Mr. (Chester) Hamulak said, "we've had enough of Bird and too much of Bull."

If this trend keeps on, we will be in the same shape as New York for you know, and I know, citizens of Washington C.H. cannot stand all these taxes.

It seems like every time you turn around, someone has their hands in our pockets more than we do, and we are sick and tired of it.

Dorothy Stolzenburg,
804 Maple St.

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

The fans and participants of the Washington C.H.-Miami Trace football game last Friday night are to be commended for their excellent sportsmanship.

Although there was a large crowd and a hard-hitting game, it was an excellent example of a healthy rivalry.

The score on the scoreboard may change from year to year but with this kind of sportsmanship both schools are winners.

Curtis E. Fleisher
Principal
Miami Trace High School

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

In the past month, there have been many accusations made against me as chairman of City Council. At this time I would like to answer these accusations made by Mrs. Richard Allen in her "Letter to the Editor," and by Mr. William Stolzenburg, Sr. in his statement read at a recent City Council meeting.

ISSUE 1 — Paying the city manager's Country Club dues.

Answer: I feel this was answered at the time it was asked, but I will repeat myself. The city has offered to pay Country Club membership dues for the city manager since 1967. Councilman Rhoads sees Mr. Stolzenburg more than I do, so he could answer this question in more detail since he signed the voucher in 1974. This policy can be changed anytime by council.

ISSUE 2 — Hiring firemen to work at Cook Home Improvements.

Answer: I have recently been accused of illegally hiring firemen to work for my company. During the past summer, I had four full-time and two part-time employees. These two part-time employees were firemen and they worked only during their off-duty time. Both are good workers and have asked for part-time work. To my knowledge, there is nothing illegal in this.

ISSUE 3 — Signing a contract with the engineer for the sewage project.

Answer: When I received the contract for this project, I placed it in the city safe after showing it to other members of council. I did not sign this official copy. What was shown to Councilman Wilson, to go over and suggest changes, was an unofficial sammy copy. This contract is the one that has been before council for five weeks. The contract cannot go into effect until it is approved by council and the monies are accepted from EPA.

ISSUE 4 — How much money will the one per cent income tax bring into the city in 1975?

Answer: When we passed the one-per cent income tax in April, we hoped to bring in approximately $279,000.00 dollars. This is what I hoped would balance the budget. As of now, the city has received only $168,469.50. As the money comes in, it must be certified by the county auditor. The only monies which will come in yet this year are last quarter payments from individuals and businesses. So, as you can see, the tax will not bring in any more money this year than I anticipated. With these facts and figures it is obvious that Mrs. Allen does not understand the use and collection of the income tax.

I have now answered all accusations made against me as chairman of City Council and I hope you realize these accusations were totally false and uncalled for. As your councilman for fourteen years, I have tried my best to make Washington C.H. a place we can all be proud of. I came here because it was the finest city I could find, and after twenty years of living here, I still feel that there is not a better community. Through my time and efforts, I hope that I have helped make Washington C.H. a great community for future generations, also. We do have problems, but I am sure that by working together we can solve them.

Ralph L. Cook,
Chairman
Washington C.H. City Council

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

Free enterprise in the United States is important, however, as in most things, a measure of control is essential. We are indiscriminately though, permitting control to get out of control.

It is almost impossible now for people in business to do business because of the time spent trying to keep a record of it. Many laws now hinder the people that the laws are intended to protect.

We cannot emotionally conceive legislation to cope with a problem. We cannot always rely on politicians to submit bills to become law that are fit and proper. Politicians, being almost human also, have a tendency to clog the legislative hopper with irresponsible verbiage for the purpose of self aggrandizement.

A democratic form of government is a very bad form of government, but it is much better than any other form of government on the planet earth.

The tricks are many and the pitfalls are cleverly concealed. We must be aware and attentive, than we can prevent too much bad from happening for too long. We must vote, we must keep informed, we must be tolerant, in short, we must stop confining the area of our concern to a self drawn three-foot circle; thereby, pushing our burden onto someone else. We cannot assume that everyone is going to do us in, and we cannot assume that everyone is acting as we would approve. We must be vigilant and act accordingly.

In the clear light of dawn, probably no responsible citizen wants to publicly prevent anyone from exercising the right of free public enterprise. If there are those who feel that public display of X-rated movies is not desirable, then it would seem that they would be within the limits of logic to protest. The proposed solution of asking that a fence be constructed would not seem to be too practical. The height of such a fence or wall would probably be a hazard in the first strong wind, not to mention the cost.

Perhaps, the problem could be solved by changing the direction of the facing of the screen. People living in the vicinity of any drive-in theater should not have to impose a curfew on their children for reasons of objectionable movies being publicly displayed. I wonder if it is wise to permit any drive-in movie screen to be viewable from a public highway? Isn't that a hazard to traffic regardless of the rating of the movie?

I remember when drive-in theaters came into being about 25 years ago. X-rated movies were illegal and were shown to selected groups of people in private. Things have changed and maybe we should now cope with the change by seeking to enact appropriate legislation. The path is narrow between rights and infringement, but tread we must, but with consideration, compassion and courage. We might wish to consider all aspects of this problem of infringement of the public right of contentment in the area of private domicile and hazards to vehicular and pedestrian traffic.

Perhaps we would be wise to consider proposing a state law. Petitions, generally, are not the most effective method of effecting legislative change. A one-page letter from many people to our elected representatives would be more effective. If we address them properly, use correct titles, state how the problem affects our community, be businesslike, brief and not terse, be specific and say exactly what we are for or against, be polite, be reasonable, be yourself, request results, ask for an answer (where does he stand?), be appreciative, then we would get results.

New York City woes started by borrowing

By LEE MITGANG
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A $26 million entry in the New York City budget 11 years ago seemed out of place in the wilderness of numbers that totalled $3.3 billion.

Experts now say that small sum may have paved the way for the city's financial collapse 11 years later, as the nation's largest city now struggles to pay off $12.4 billion in debts and balance its budget.

That $26 million was the first time the city's politicians borrowed money to pay for everyday city expenses.

In this case, former Mayor Robert F. Wagner decided that rather than raise taxes or cut back on city services, he would take expense items — some consultant fees — and put them into the city's capital budget, which is financed by floating bonds and short-term notes.

He was able to do this because in mid-1964, then-Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and the state legislature decided to allow the city to borrow money to pay for a variety of normal expenses.

The legal door was thus flung open for Wagner, former Mayor John V. Lindsay and Mayor Abraham D. Beame to borrow for almost any expense item they pleased, while amassing a "hidden" budget deficit recently conceded by the Beame administration at $3 billion.

In 1969 and 1970, Lindsay doubled current expense borrowing from $84 million to $151 million by switching manpower training and job development from the expense budget to the capital budget.

In 1974, Beame shifted $722 million in expense items to the capital budget.

Last June, New York State Comptroller Arthur Levitt studied the years when Lindsay was mayor and Beame was comptroller, and found the city had used bonds to finance city salaries, library books, architects fees, even interest on other bonds.

Most now expect the city's deficit financing of operating expenses to top $1 billion in fiscal 1975-76.

"By borrowing to pay for operating expenses year after year, there develops a built-in, permanent need for more taxes, just to pay the interest on borrowings," Levitt said.

The budget itself has quadrupled in the past decade, from $3.3 billion in 1965 to a current $12.2 billion.

Before Mayor Beame was forced by the current fiscal crisis to lay off some 36,000 workers, the city's workforce had more than tripled from 103,000 in 1956 to 340,000 in mid-1975.

The floodgates for generous wage and pension benefits were opened by another Wagner decision in 1958 to allow the city's workers the right to unionize as they wished.

The unions first flexed their bargaining muscle in 1966, when city transit workers won a then-unheard-of 15.7 per cent pay raise over two years after a crippling 12-day strike.

Since then, the average transit worker's pay has gone from $7,222 a year to $15,125, up 109 per cent, and some city unions have done even better. During this period the city's inflation rate has gone up 78.4 per cent.

Over-all, a 1974 study by the Citizens Union Research Foundation showed that the city's pension costs had gone up more than 400 per cent in the past 10 years. Many workers can retire with at least half pay after 20 years of service, which is better on a percentage basis than terms offered almost anywhere else in the private or government sectors.

A look at 10 years of city budgets by the Citizens Budget Commission shows that city pensions and salaries are not the whole story of New York City's fall towards default.

Between 1965 and the present, welfare and social service costs have gone up six-fold to more than $2.4 billion. More than one million New Yorkers are on relief. New York foots a far larger share of its social services bill than any other large city, most of which have county and state help.

Education costs, which include a tuition-free college system even for wealthy students, have tripled to $2 billion. Since 1970, when open university enrollment began, more than 19,000 students were added, bringing the total to an estimated 270,800.

The city's health costs, which include maintenance of 19 municipal hospitals, have likewise tripled to more than $1 billion.

Other costs, including police and fire protection and environmental services, have also doubled and tripled in the past decade.

And debt service, the amount of budget money that goes toward paying off the city's bonds and notes, has gone from $470 million in 1965 to more than $1.8 billion — 14 cents out of every city tax dollar.

While costs have gone up, the city's corporate, personal and property taxes have not kept pace.

Here, forces inside and outside the city figure in, and they lie at the heart of the city's huge borrowing needs.

New York City has experienced great shifts of population since the 19th century, but the changes since World War II have been financially unfavorable. Prodded by federal government home mortgage guarantee and loan programs, the city's affluent moved to the suburbs in the 1950s to be joined by others fleeing crime and other urban ills through the 1960s.

In the last decade nearly a million middle and uppermiddle class New Yorkers have left, replaced by a million of the nation's poor, many of whom became welfare cases.

Along with the middle class, many businesses have left the city, taking with them an estimated 500,000 jobs in the past five years alone. Meanwhile, New York City's latest unemployment figures stand at 12.2 per cent, while the national rate is 8.6 per cent.

Local economists say the city never recovered from the 1969-70 national recession, much less the latest one.

Another factor which has eroded the city's tax base has been the high rate of building abandonment by landlords in run-down neighborhoods such as the South Bronx, a problem some say was heightened with the coming of rent controls during World War II.

It is presently estimated that up to one million buildings remain with rents frozen at or near mid-1940 levels. The city is one of the last areas in the nation to continue the rent control program.

In the past decade the amount of unpaid and uncollectable city property taxes has grown to about $400 million.

Outside the city, once-sympathetic attitudes toward city poverty programs were changing and those changes have meant fewer federal and state dollars for New York City.

Before the years of President Johnson's Great Society programs, the federal and state government provided only 25 per cent of the city's financing. Under Johnson, that share soared to 48 per cent of the city's budget. The Great Society programs were cut back during the Nixon years, and in the past four years state and federal contributions to the city have dropped to 43 per cent of the budget. City officials, who in the '60s willingly took on federal poverty programs, now say that the more conservative Nixon and Ford administrations left New York City holding the bag in the 1970s.

While federal contributions to anti-poverty programs were cut back, the city was loath to end the programs begun under federal sponsorship because of the impact on the city's poor.

Deny bond in slaying

MILTON, Fla. (AP) — Santa Rosa County Judge Colie Nichols Jr. Tuesday denied bond to a man and woman charged with the kidnapping and murder of a Pensacola realtor.

Nichols also appointed a public defender to represent Billy Shephard, 26, of Warsaw, Ind., and Phyllis James, 24, of Marion, Ohio. Both are charged in the death of Alma C. Hartley.

Officials said Shephard, a painter, and Miss James, his girlfriend, had been working at Panama City for Leo J. Miller, a carpenter also charged with murder and kidnapping in the case.

Miller, 38, of Plantersville, Miss., will be returned Wednesday to Florida from Albuquerque, N.M., authorities said.

Miller's son, Leo Jr., 18, of Pascagoula, Miss., has been charged with kidnapping and extortion in the case.

Objective look at hunting presented

An objective look at the sport of hunting was presented to members of the Washington C.H. Lions Club at their regular semi-monthly dinner meeting in the Country Club.

Phil French, a local sportsman, and Fayette County game protector Jerry Cremeans spoke briefly on an unprecedented attack against hunting by major television networks and magazines and later presented an entertaining and informative color movie entitled "A Question of Hunting."

French said he and Cremeans were attempting to "untarnish the image of hunters" as presented two months ago in a 90-minute CBS-TV documentary entitled "The Guns of Autumn." French said the television special was "outrageous, repulsive and unobjective."

Hunting is a major form of recreation for 20 per cent (20 million) of the nation's population, French told the 76 members present. He said the sport is now an American pastime while 200 years ago men were forced to hunt for survival.

The 28-minute movie presented by French and Cremeans examined both sides of sport through a series of interviews with hunters, game protectors, conservationists, preservationists and anti-hunters.

The movie pointed out that when the United States was settled the natural habitat for many species of game was destroyed.

Habitat restoration is the key to saving many species of wildlife from extinction. Seventy million acres of land in the nation have been set aside for habitat restoration and wildlife refuges.

One interesting point brought out in the film was the fact that since legislation was approved in 1937 a total of $2 billion has been produced from an 11 per cent tax on hunting supplies for the preservation of wildlife. The money produced through the tax also pays the salaries of personnel in the state wildlife divisions.

Cremeans, who has served as Fayette County's game protector since 1970, fielded questions from the audience following the movie.

The game protector, in response to an inquiry, said that presently approximately 600 deer in Fayette County and an estimated 80,000 in Ohio. The deer herd here is primarily concentrated in Wayne and Perry townships.

A drastic change in farming methods is causing the present lack of pheasants in Fayette County, Cremeans said.

The meeting was conducted by club president Richard Coates and the program was arranged by George W. (Bud) Naylor, the club's second vice president.

During the meeting, Dr. Ron Walker, a Washington C.H. dentist, was introduced as a new member. He was sponsored by Allen Willoughby. Also during the meeting, club members unanimously approved amendments to the club constitution and bylaws. Wesley Cox served as chairman of the constitutional revision committee.

Guests were Ray French with Harry Thrailkill and Gene Alkire and Jeff Harper with Dustin Giron.

The club's board of directors approved payment of $87.70 for two cases for eye glasses for needy Fayette County residents.

New real estate mortgages hit $1.8 million in month

New real estate mortgages totaling $1,877,716.90 were recorded in Fayette County during the month of October, according to the monthly report prepared by Mrs. Lorie M. Armbrust, Fayette County recorder.

The new mortgage figure includes $773,400 on 38 lots and other platted properties; $816,006.49 on 310.83 acres in 25 transactions and four commercial mortgages totaling $288,310.41.

Seventy-seven deeds were recorded in October, 27 of them changing title to 878.71 acres of farm property. There were five certificates of transfer for lots and four for rural properties.

OTHER instruments recorded during October were:

One affidavit for transfer, two affidavits for transfer in aid of title, eight right of ways and easements, one court order for transfer, two cemetery deeds, one bankruptcy order, four open-end mortgages, four land contracts, 38 mortgage releases on lots, seven mortgage releases on tracts under five acres, 14 mortgage releases on farm property, seven partial mortgage releases, eight mortgage assignments, two leases, three power of attorney, two unemployment compensation liens, four workmen's compensation liens, three mechanic's liens, three soldiers discharges and 147 financing statements.

Bus crash fatal to 2 students

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — A bus carrying students from a school for the mentally retarded crashed into a guardrail here Tuesday, killing two students and injuring the 12 others on board, police said.

Six of the injured were admitted to Akron-area hospitals. Six others were treated and released, hospital officials said.

The dead were identified by hospital authorities as Sherry Glenn, 27, and Alexander Hallas, 23, both of Akron.

The crash of the bus from the Weaver School and Workshop of Tallmadge, occurred about 4 p.m. on Interstate 76 here. Police said the bus driver apparently lost control of the vantage bus which then crashed into a guardrail and flipped over.

Parts of the bus were torn off and three pupils were thrown onto the highway, police said. The crash tied up traffic for half an hour. No other vehicle was involved.

Among the injured was the driver, Kathryn Moore, 42, of Akron, who was taking the pupils home from school.

Mrs. Moore was in satisfactory condition at Green Cross Hospital in Cuyahoga Falls. The other victims who remain hospitalized are Claudine Nester, 52, of Norton; Anita K. Wayne, 5, of Barberton; Eric Teeple, 9, of Akron; John Fegan, 7, of Norton and Tina Jones, 7, of Norton.

Dayton teacher wins top honor

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's Teacher of the Year for 1975 says teachers who provided personal attention and expressed concern encouraged her success in school.

Barbara J. Hilgeford, a reading teacher at Meadowdale High School in the Dayton School District, also received Dayton's 1975 Teacher of the Year award.

State Supt. of Public Instruction Martin W. Essex announced the selection of Mrs. Hilgeford Monday.

In her 25th year as an instructor, Mrs. Hilgeford has been with the Dayton school system since 1969. She has been chairman of the English department at Meadowdale for the past two years and designed and implemented the school's reading program.

Sohio chief rips efforts by Congress

CHICAGO (AP)—Congressional efforts to regulate oil prices and increase oil company taxes are "an experiment with the security and economic well being of our country," the president of the Standard Oil Co. (Ohio) has warned.

Charles E. Spahr said Tuesday the petroleum industry provides 70 per cent of the nation's energy needs, produces adaptations of fossil fuel energy that underlie the American standard of living, employs 1.4 million Americans directly and more indirectly and provides investment income for 14 million U.S. residents.

Efforts by some members of the House and Senate to break up the major oil companies would lead directly to decreased supplies and higher prices, Spahr added.

He told the annual meeting of the American Petroleum Institute that Congressional attempts to regulate oil markets and increase oil company taxes could be seen as progressive nationalization of the industry.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Daytime television's ratings race should get quite lively Dec. 1, when CBS pits daily reruns of its hit "All in the Family" nighttime series against NBC's high-rated "Another World" soap opera.

The half-hour "Family" series, the nation's top-rated show for six out of eight weeks this season, will start its repeats at 3 p.m. EST each day, when NBC's hour-long "Another World" begins.

While it's not the first time a network has put repeats of a nighttime situation comedy in its daytime lineup, it is the first time a series from producer Norman Lear's successful nighttime series emporium has been scheduled for daytime television.

It's a bit ironic, since CBS — as well as NBC and ABC — rejected Lear's new "Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman" comedycum-soap opera series as a Monday-through-Friday show for daytime viewers.

Lear, who is proceeding with the series anyway and syndicating it to stations, said in an interview last September that CBS turned it down after he balked at basic changes he said CBS wanted made.

He said Fred Silverman, CBS' program chief when he proposed the series, wanted "Hartman" as a once-a-week nighttime show that ran an hour and was taped before a studio audience.

But Donald "Bud" Grant, CBS' daytime programming chief and the man responsible for scheduling "All in the Family" repeats for daytime TV, said rejection of "Hartman" as a daytime series was his idea, not Silverman's.

It was a matter of "pure program judgment," he said. "There was a practical and production problem associated with 'Mary Hartman,' which I think was an overriding and impossible problem to lick.

"And that is writing 260 comedy scripts a year."

By this he meant that a daily "Hartman" show would require five new half-hour scripts a week, 52 weeks a year.

"It's tough to write comedy," Grant said. "It's hard enough coming up with 24 'All in the Family' scripts each season when you're dealing with characters as well-defined as Archie and Edith Bunker and the Sally Struthers and Rob Reiner characters."

He said a soap opera script, which he considers serious drama, "is much easier to write and sustain than comedy. Comedy's very fragile."

Partition now respectable idea as Lebanon solution

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Unthinkable a few months ago, partition has emerged as a respectable idea in the search for a solution to Lebanon's bloody strife.

The idea is being put forward primarily by Christian leaders. Moslem leaders express vehement opposition.

The partition idea has grown from the despairing conclusion that the nation's leaders — openly clashing along religious lines — can never resolve the bitter divisions hardened by seven months of civil war.

Already there is some partition in fact created by the widespread flight of Moslems from Christian districts and of Christians from Moslem quarters in Beirut and the countryside. Most people feel secure only when surrounded by members of their own religion once darkness falls.

"There is a very strong current in Lebanon today in favor of partition," said Mousa Prince, a leader of Interior Minister Camille Chamoun's National Liberal Party, a Christian group.

Prince proposed to Premier Rashid Karami's cease-fire commission an "ultimate rescue measure" that in effect would partition the country into Moslem and Christian districts. There are reports that leaders of the right-wing Christian Phalange party have also have prepared a partition plan for the Connecticut-size nation.

Reagan's daughter against campaign

NEEDHAM, Mass. (AP) — Ronald Reagan's daughter, Maureen, says she's the family's "most vociferous" detractor when it comes to her father's presidential ambitions.

"It is for reasons all personal and very selfish," she said in an interview Tuesday with WCVB-TV. "They come after eight years of having to make phone calls to arrange appointments to speak to my own father."

Reagan, who left office as governor of California earlier this year, is expected to announce later this month that he will challenge President Ford for the Republican presidential nomination.

"I have a career of my own, and I am getting awfully sick of being known as somebody's kid," said Miss Reagan, 31 and an actress.

"Also, my mother and father both have suffered from a lack of privacy and could use some anonymity."

Housing problems defy solution

By JOHN CUNIFF

Associated Press Writer

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The savings and loan people, who like to remind you how much they've done to finance the houses of America, feel they need some understanding and perhaps some aid.

They are deeply concerned, for example, that the typical American family no longer can afford to purchase the typical new single-family home. They are worried about the deep social implications of this.

More to the point, they are concerned about the decisions this thrusts upon them. Their business is lending money to finance home ownership, but their first responsibility is to protect their customers' savings.

Builders, however, seem unable to bring housing costs down. Attempts to do so have been frustrated by rising prices of land, labor and materials, and often by old-fashioned, restrictive building codes.

There's another complicating factor: the American dream of a single-family home on its own green quarter-acre lives on. More than one financial institution was convinced it could change this aspiration, and failed.

That is, they tried to move young families into modern town house-style dwellings, but the young moderns interpreted modern to mean less.

They observed that town houses were connected, that they shared "party walls" and that above all, they were not distinctly separate houses on their own grassy plots.

The head of one savings and loan association relates how his company still owns a town house development in which it managed to reduce the price of a two-bedroom unit to about $20,000. There was little demand. It now rents, instead.

"Young couples still want the old-fashioned, single-family unit on its own plot," said the frustrated president of the association, which is situated in the Pacific Northwest. "They want what mom and dad had," he said.

Something has to give, he indicated, and you get the feeling that many other housing and finance people share that belief. Construction of new housing remains slow, interest rates remain relatively high, and prices are rising.

More than 8,000 delegates, spouses and exhibitors are gathered here for the 83rd annual convention of the U.S.

Simply providing for the usual, middle-class need for housing is risky enough during periods of economic confusion, they point out, but atop this they face a dilemma on how to finance low-income, inner city housing.

The savings and loan people have made a proposal: "We will in good conscience be able to risk the savings of our customers to finance such housing if the government will help."

How? Through federal guarantees. They propose that investments by them in blighted areas be insured to 80 per cent by the federal government.

Painesville patrolman sees UFO

PAINESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Madison Village Patrolman Zachary Space went on duty early today still wondering what those strange lights were he saw a day earlier.

Pace and others in the area reported seeing silent multicolored lights hovering above trees and power lines early Tuesday.

The patrolman received a report a UFO was heading toward Painesville. He, another Madison patrolman and a Lake County Sheriff's deputy said they chased the eerie lights.

Another witness, Kenneth Ohtola, 28, of Madison said he saw one white light that had red and green lights on it. "It was just a light, like a lantern suspended up on a telephone pole," Ohtola said.

Space said he and fellow officers observed the lights from a distance of about a quarter of a mile. He said that at one time the lights appeared bigger than a house.

Airport officials in the Cleveland area reported no unidentified flying objects sighted or on their radar screens.

The patrolman said the lights disappeared "in a flash."

Space said he has taken a lot of ribbing about the UFO.

"And my name is Space to top it all," he added.

Good punt by Dave Green usually brings penalty flag

CINCINNATI (AP) — When Cincinnati Bengals punter Dave Green gets off a really good kick he automatically is ready to kick it over. "Everytime I get off a good one, I look for the officials' flags," laughed the affable kicker from Ohio University, now in his fourth year. "I had a 65-yarder against Green Bay, but I didn't see that one. I was flat on my back. They — the defense — hit me and it was called back for interference and I had to kick it again." The second kick didn't go as high or as far, nor did it get a Cincinnati bounce. Green has two more that traveled nearly 60 yards but either Cincinnati or the other side was called for a penalty. He did not have to rekick on one of those because the Bengals were awarded a first down.

Green has punted 49 times this far this season for an average of 41.3 yards. His longest was 57 yards against Pittsburgh.

"I just stood there waiting for the flags," he smiled.

Green has not had a single punt cleanly blocked.

Nor has he had a fake kick, although he nearly did in the Pittsburgh game, late in the third period.

"I called it off," he said. "Things were not right for it," meaning, as Coach Paul Brown later said, the Steelers caught on because of some offensive changes Cincinnati made.

Green has made five of eight field goal attempts since taking on the additional duty with the departure of Horst Muhlmann to the Philadelphia Eagles.

Green missed two field goals in the narrow 17-16 victory last Sunday over the Denver Broncos.

"I rushed on the first kick," Green said. "On the second one, I asked the referee about. He just said 'tough luck.'"

But Green's 45-yarder in the third quarter gave Cincinnati the winning edge to keep its 7-1 record growing.

Woman jockey wins feature at Latonia

FLORENCE, Ky. (AP) — Cathy Taylor, 23, of Toledo, Ohio, drove a second winner in only her third parimutuel race Tuesday, coaxing favored Pletch to a wire-to-wire, two-length victory in the featured mile trot at Latonia Tuesday night.

Miss Taylor, who drove Pletch to victory here Friday night, has raced only three times since moving over from the county fair circuit.

Pletch returned $5.40, $3.40 and $2.60. Justly Deluxe, second, paid $2.60 and $2.60 and Chief Dean, third, paid $2.80. The 2-8 daily double of Loose Key and Ruby Town paid $63.20.

The crowd of 1,354 bet $95,520.

Seaver wins Cy Young award

NEW YORK (AP) — Perfectionist Tom Seaver of the New York Mets won the National League's Cy Young Award today for the third time in his career.

The Met ace, who makes a complex science out of pitching, equalled the achievement of Hall of Famer Sandy Koufax, the only other player in baseball history to win the prestigious award three times. Koufax, of the Los Angeles Dodgers, was named the National League's top pitcher in 1963, 1965 and 1966.

Seaver, named previously in 1969 and 1973, was given the prize by the Baseball Writers Association of America in a battle with San Diego stopper Randy Jones.

Seaver was tossed 15 first-place votes, seven for second place and two for third from the 24 writers, two from each of the National League cities, for a total of 98 points.

Under a 5-3-1 point system, Jones was given 80 points, based on seven first-place ballots, 14 for second and three thirds.

Al Hrabosky, the spectacular relief ace of the St. Louis Cardinals, pulled down 33 points, based on two firsts, three seconds and 14 thirds.

Four other pitchers also received third-place votes — John Montefusco of the San Francisco Giants, Cincinnati's Don Gullett and Andy Messersmith and Don Sutton of Los Angeles.

Seaver, despite being hampered by a bad back, rebounded from an 11-11 season in 1974 to lead the National League in victories with 22 and in strikeouts with 243. It was his eighth straight year with 200 or more strikeouts, a major league record.

Seaver also was tops in three other categories — complete games with 15, shutouts with five and innings pitched with 280. The season was the right-hander's fourth 20-victory year in eight in the major leagues.

Jones, who led the league with an earned run average of 2.24, was the National's only other 20-game winner. On the final day of the season, when Seaver already had 21 victories, Jones tried for his 21st and failed. On the same day, Seaver picked up his 22nd.

Like Seaver, Jones was up among the leaders in virtually every important pitching category except strikeouts, where his total was only 103 for 285 innings.

And also like Seaver, Jones bounced back from a disastrous performance in 1974. He was a 20-game loser then.

Jones is the first San Diego player to receive a vote in the Cy Young balloting. Jones and Seaver were the only players named on all 24 ballots.

Phipps set as starter for Browns

CLEVELAND (AP) — Barring a slower than expected physical recovery, veteran Mike Phipps will be at quarterback Sunday when the winless Cleveland Browns visit Oakland.

"If Mike Phipps had been 100 per cent, he would have started the game with Detroit," explained Browns Coach Forrest Gregg Monday at his weekly news conference.

"If Mike Phipps is healthy, he will start against Oakland," he added.

Phipps, in his sixth year with the Browns, was generally ineffective in starting the first five regular season games. He lost his starting job to Brian Sipe for two games, but came in two weeks ago against Washington long enough to suffer a sprained arch.

Second-year player Will Cureton went all the way at quarterback in Sunday's 21-10 loss to the Lions. It was the first regular season action Cureton had ever seen.

Cureton hit on only 10 of 32 passing attempts for 95 yards and one touchdown. He had one pass intercepted and returned 67 yards for a touchdown.

Hawks trip Celtics, 100-91

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

Boston Celtics Coach Tom Heinsohn was none too pleased with his players' performance Tuesday night, and he let them know it.

"That was a ridiculous game, a terrible game," Heinsohn said after watching his team drop a 100-91 decision to the Atlanta Hawks. "We weren't running. We didn't play smart basketball."

"St. Joseph's Grammar School could have played us even tonight."

Elsewhere in the National Basketball Association, the Washington Bullets beat the Buffalo Braves 105-90, the Phoenix Suns whipped the New York Knicks 112-81, the Milwaukee Bucks trounced the Philadelphia 76ers 108-81, the Golden State Warriors trimmed the Cleveland Cavaliers 103-98 and the Portland Trail Blazers edged the New Orleans Jazz 106-104.

Veterans Lou Hudson, Connie Hawkins and Tom Van Arsdale led the way for the Hawks, combining for 49 points and adding poise to the Hawks' basically young squad. "A year ago we would have lost this game," Atlanta Coach Cotton Fitzsimmons said.

Hudson led his team with 21 points, Hawkins had a seasonhigh 16 and Van Arsdale 12. Young guard Tom Henderson, last year's No. 1 pick, had 19.

Hudson had five points in a 13-3 burst at the start of the second half that gave Atlanta a 10-point lead, and the Celtics never caught up.

Jo Jo White led Boston with 24 points and Dave Cowens and second-year man Glenn McDonald added 16 apiece.

Bullets 105, Braves 90

Reserve guard Clem Haskins scored eight points in a 20-8 third-quarter burst that put Washington in front by 18 points going into the final period, and the Braves never recovered.

Haskins and Dave Bing topped Washington scorers with 18 points apiece, while Randy Smith netted 27 for Buffalo.

Suns 112, Knicks 81

Paul Westphal scored 21 points as Phoenix handed the Knicks their fifth straight defeat. New York's backcourt of Walt Frazier and Earl Monroe could manage a total of just 18 points, less than half their average.

Bucks 108, 76ers 81

Milwaukee outrebounded Philadelphia by a stunning 64-34 margin, with Elmore Smith grabbing 14 and Jim Fox and Kevin Restani 12 apiece. Bob Dandridge and Brian Winters took care of the scoring with 28 and 18 points, respectively.

Warriors 103, Cavs 98

Six points in the final four minutes by Phil Smith sealed Golden State's fourth straight triumph. The Warriors trailed most of the contest but went ahead to stay on consecutive baskets by Charles Dudley and Smith.

Rick Barry was high scorer for Golden State with 23 points and Smith had 20. Bingo Smith of Cleveland was high for the game with 27.

Blazers 106, Jazz 104

Sidney Wicks hit a driving layup and a pair of free throws in the final minute to lift Portland past the Jazz, which had led by 13 points at halftime. Pete Maravich scored 27 for New Orleans.

San Diego franchise folds

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Basketball Association dropped the other shoe Tuesday, folding its San Diego franchise in a move towards consolidation and economic stability.

When the league closed the Baltimore Claws three weeks ago, there was strong sentiment among some officials for dropping San Diego as well. That would eliminate costly travel to the West Coast and allow the ABA to go into the season as a compact, eight-team unit.

But Frank Goldberg, owner of the San Diego Sails, was able to keep the team alive — until Tuesday, when the ABA decided to pull up stakes after a fraction more than three seasons in San Diego.

There were indications from some Sails officials that the action was taken despite objections by Goldberg, but a league official said following the day-long meetings, "My feeling is that Goldberg just sat down and made a straight business decision."

"What Commissioner Dave DeBusschere is trying to do is establish some sort of stability," the ABA official explained. "We want to show that we're operating as a business — a sound, sensible business."

Goldberg left the ABA meeting, returned immediately to San Diego and was unavailable for comment. But other Sails principles expressed shock at the dissolution of their franchise.

"I'm in a state of shock. I'm stunned. I had no idea," said Bill Musselman, who left the University of Minnesota to become coach of the Sails this season. "Goldberg is a basketball fanatic. I can't believe he would drop the franchise when he just bought it."

On Tuesday morning, Sails officials denied reports that their club was about to go under. But hours later, the league took the wind out of the Sails with a one-paragraph announcement:

"San Diego confirmed today they were ceasing business operations effective immediately," the statement read. "In accordance with league by-laws, this action automatically terminates the membership of this franchise in the league. The ABA is now considering what actions to take with respect to San Diego."

The first action, scheduled for this afternoon, is a dispersal draft to distribute the Sails players among the eight remaining ABA teams. Among the top names who'll be moving on are center Caldwell Jones, guards Bo Lamar and Kevin Joyce, veteran frontcourtmen Dave Robisch and Stu Johnson and 19-year-old Mark Olberding, a rugged forward who came with Musselman to the Sails after one year at Minnesota.

Jones is a special case. One of the game's premier pivotmen, he has signed a long-term contract with the NBA's Philadelphia 76ers, effective in 1977. Pat Williams, the 76ers general manager, said he would study the matter to see if Jones' services might be obtained prior to 1977, but an ABA official said he was on the third year of a three-year pact and was bound to the league for this season plus one option year.

Also on the immediate agenda for ABA officials is the composition of a new schedule, the second time they have had to redo their slate in less than a month.

Kentucky Colonels rip Squires

By The Associated Press

If at first you don't succeed, the Kentucky Colonels know what to do.

"We scored with 23 second-effort shots," said Coach Hubie Brown, whose Colonels whipped the sagging Virginia Squires 128-106 in Cincinnati Tuesday night. "You should win anytime you get over 15 in a game."

Artis Gilmore and Louie Dampier were the Colonels' big guns, pouring in 21 points each as Kentucky posted its 15th consecutive victory over Virginia. The Colonels lead the ABA East with a 6-1 mark, while the Squires, crippled by injuries, are in the cellar at 1-9.

In the only other ABA game of the night, the Denver Nuggets beat the Indiana Pacers 126-117.

Kentucky went ahead to stay at 32-31 on a Dampier jumper five minutes into the second period and never trailed. The Colonels outscored Virginia 79-55 in the two middle periods to take a 21-point edge into the final quarter.

Johnny Neumann was high scorer for Virginia with 21 points. Rookie Ticky Burden added 20 points, but only had nine over the first three periods. Two Virginia regulars, center Mike Green and playmaker Mack Clavin, still have not played because of preseason injuries.

The game, one of 14 Kentucky home contests being played at the Cincinnati Coliseum, drew a sparse crowd of 4,111.

Nuggets 126, Pacers 117

Ralph Simpson scored six points in a row during the fourth quarter to stave off a comeback bid by the Pacers. Denver built a 13-point halftime lead, then saw the Pacers close to 101-95 midway through the final period before Simpson stemmed the tide.

Simpson finished with 14 points. Nuggets rookie David Thompson and Indiana's Billy Knight shared game honors with 28 points apiece.

The victory gave the Nuggets a 1½-game lead over the Pacers in the ABA West.

Bill Kollar goes after better slot

CINCINNATI (AP) — Bill Kollar, who entered the 1975 season as heir apparent to Mike Reid, is chomping at the bit these days, eager to prove he's no paper tiger.

He feels Coach Paul Brown has lost some faith in him—and he's waiting for the chance to prove otherwise.

"I know I can play the run," said the 6-foot-3, 250-pound defensive tackle.

The Bengals' No. 1 draft choice of 1974, Kollar has been relegated to a part-time role, a jolt for the Ohio native who hoped to move into the vacancy left by the premature retirement of Reid.

Kollar pinpoints his troubles to a game against Buffalo a month ago.

"I got knocked down twice during the game, which is rare for me, and I think coach got concerned about it," said Kollar. "I tried to explain that it wasn't my man who knocked me down. I think it was somebody who had missed an assignment and got me from behind. When the coaches couldn't see what happened in the films, they started worrying I couldn't defense the run."

A short time later, the Bengals claimed two defensive linemen—Bob Brown and Maulty Moore—in a move apparently designed to bolster the defensive wall.

Since then, Kollar, who is considered one of the quickest defensive tackles in the National Football League, has been used mainly against the pass.

PBA sets tourney in Toledo April 6-10

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — The Professional Bowlers Association has announced the scheduling of an $80,000 tournament at Toledo's Imperial Lanes, April 6-10.

The tournament, one of 16 on the PBA winter tour, will be sponsored by the Monroe Auto Equipment Co.

Ump blames Gowdy, Kubek for threats

MARION, Ohio (AP) — Larry Barnett says he holds two television sports announcers accountable for the threats on his family over a controversial call the American League umpire made in baseball's 1975 World Series.

"I hold Tony Kubek and Curt Gowdy (National Broadcasting Co. announcers) personally responsible for the threats on my life and the lives of my wife (Sharon) and daughter (2-year-old Susan)," Barnett said from his winter home in Prospect, Ohio.

"At least 95 per cent of the mail I have received has mentioned the television announcers and their views," he said.

Barnett refused to call interference on Cincinnati Reds pinch-hitter Ed Armbrister on a sacrifice in the third game of the Series. Armbrister and Boston Red Sox catcher Carlton Fisk collided in the basepath near home plate.

"It was just a breakdown from the plate," explained Barnett, the youngest major league umpire when he broke into the AL seven years ago.

"Armbrister broke for first base. Fisk broke for the ball. There was a collision. When Fisk fielded the ball, he was not obstructed on his throw to second base."

"It has happened many times in the major leagues, but it's the first time I've been confronted with the play."

Barnett said of Kubek and Gowdy, "We threw them out of the dressing room in Boston. I think they were very unfair to me. The rule book backs me 100 per cent. They don't know the rules."

Bowl selection committees choosing teams cautiously

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
AP Sports Writer

Now that the National Collegiate Athletic Association has reinstated its restriction on bowl invitations, very few bids are likely to be handed out at the first opportunity anyway.

The respective bowl committees will fan out to college football games across the country Saturday. But instead of bearing invitations, in most cases they'll be traveling empty-handed.

However, one week later there may be a stampede to line up the best possible postseason attractions.

"It's very confused," one bowl spokesman told The Associated Press Monday. "The same teams are in the Orange, Cotton and Sugar Bowl pictures. And there are so many things to be decided."

Like the Big Eight championship between Nebraska and Oklahoma on Nov. 22, with the winner going to the Orange Bowl; the Southwest Conference race to determine whether Texas A&M, Texas or Arkansas will be the host team in the Cotton Bowl, and the Big Ten (Ohio State-Michigan) and Pacific-8 scramble to decide which also-rans will be grabbed by someone other than the Rose Bowl.

Out in Pasadena, the Rose Bowl is sitting pretty. They don't have to scout anyone since they automatically get the Big Ten and Pac-8 champs.

The other bowls are considering the following teams:

Orange: Big Eight champion (Nebraska or Oklahoma) vs. Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Michigan, Notre Dame, Ohio State, Penn State, Southern California, Texas, Texas A&M.

Cotton: Southwest Conference champ vs. Alabama, Michigan, Nebraska, Notre Dame, Ohio State,

Penn State, Southern Cal. Two from that crowd also are Sugar Bowl possibilities, along with the loser of the Nov. 28 Texas-Texas A&M game.

Gator: Florida, Georgia, Maryland,

Robinson to succeed John McKay

By JACK STEVENSON
AP Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The University of Southern California is counting on a former Oregon end, John Robinson, to replace a former Oregon halfback and bring further football glory to the Trojans.

Robinson, 40, whose career nearly parallels that of John McKay despite an intervening decade, will head the Southern Cal football fortunes in 1976 when McKay goes to the professional ranks.

Robinson, a former Southern Cal assistant coach, faces a tough assignment. He replaces a man who has coached more USC victories than any other and gone to the Rose Bowl on eight occasions, winning four.

One big difference is that Robinson is leaving the professional ranks with the Oakland Raiders, to return to the collegians. McKay is making his first try at the National Football League in coaching the new Tampa franchise that begins next year.

Also McKay, a halfback, played in the Cotton Bowl with Oregon in 1949 and Robinson, an end, was in the Rose Bowl in 1958. Oregon, with McKay, lost to Baylor, and Oregon, with Robinson, lost to Ohio State.

North Carolina State, Notre Dame, Oklahoma, Penn State, Texas, Texas A&M.

Liberty: Arkansas, California, Georgia, Georgia Tech, Missouri, Navy, Oklahoma, Southern Cal, Tennessee, UCLA.

Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl: "We're looking at the same teams most of the other bowls are looking at," according to Weldon Humble, chairman of the selection committee. The Bluebonnet would love to have the Southwest Conference runner-up against Colorado.

Fiesta: Colorado, Florida, Georgia, Maryland, Missouri, North Carolina State, Notre Dame, Southern Cal, Texas, Texas A&M, UCLA.

Sun: Arkansas, California, Colorado, Florida, Georgia, Kansas, Maryland, Missouri, North Carolina State, Penn State, Pitt, Texas A&M, UCLA. Pitt would have received an invitation had the Panthers not lost to West Virginia last weekend and they could be right back in the picture by beating Notre Dame Saturday.

Peach: Arkansas, Georgia, Georgia Tech, Maryland, North Carolina State, Tennessee.

Tangerine: Miami of Ohio is in as the Mid-American Conference champion. Opponents under consideration are Colorado, Georgia Tech, Maryland, Navy, North Carolina State, Pitt, South Carolina and Tennessee.

Bad stud brings suit

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — William R. Sweany says he paid $500 two years ago to get his registered trotting mare, Ro Ayers, bred to a Pennsylvania stud by the name of "Speedy Count."

In a suit filed in U. S. District Court, Sweany said the mare was instead "impregnated by a stud whose lineage and racing potential are unknown."

His attorney, Harry Schmuck of Canton, said the colt born of the union was "lop eared, bowlegged and no damned good."

Sweany, a bailiff in Stark County Common Pleas Court in Canton, is asking that his $500 stud fee be returned, plus $15,000 in damages. The suit is against Hanover Farm.

Cleveland Crusaders top Winnipeg Jets

WINNIPEG (AP) — Defenseman Paul Shmyr scored with eight seconds remaining, giving the Cleveland Crusaders a 3-2 World Hockey Association victory over the Winnipeg Jets Tuesday night.

Shmyr scored his first goal of the season with a 25-foot slap shot that beat Winnipeg goaltender Joe Daley low on the glove side.

Here's How Lighting Can Create Environment

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Lighting in homes is often influenced by what one sees on the motion picture or television screen. When people entertain, the choice of lighting is likely to be between a room that is much too dark or much too bright, and they usually opt for the dark room with candlelight, but not much of that.

So says Ralph Bisdale, 31, of New York, who is earning a reputation for creating "environment with light." Wisely used, it can conserve energy, he contends.

Two factors stymie the average person in achieving good home lighting, he says. For one thing, lighting salesmen often teach the lighting courses in schools, plugging their own products, and for another, newer apartments, even expensive ones, are making no provision for good lighting. Some rooms may have no more than one outlet.

"A room should be lit so pictures on the wall and objects in the room and in front of people on tables are highly lit, brightening the room, but not the people. This can provide a pretty, pleasing effect," he insists.

Light sources are played through a room with an ambience of light from one corner to the other. For example, in a living room with a white background three dimmers on a wall could be connected to track in the ceiling with three separate circuits, he explained.

One circuit would be a series of spots on a track to provide room illumination. It could be turned up for cleaning or for other reasons when bright light is required, but it would be used only partly for entertaining.

Circuit two provides light on art objects or sculpture and paintings on the walls. When entertaining, that circuit is full up. It is not obtrusive because the spots are only on the art and the light appears to be coming from the art.

The third circuit provides reading light for all the seating areas in the room so that one or more lights can be turned on with no need to use either of the other circuits.

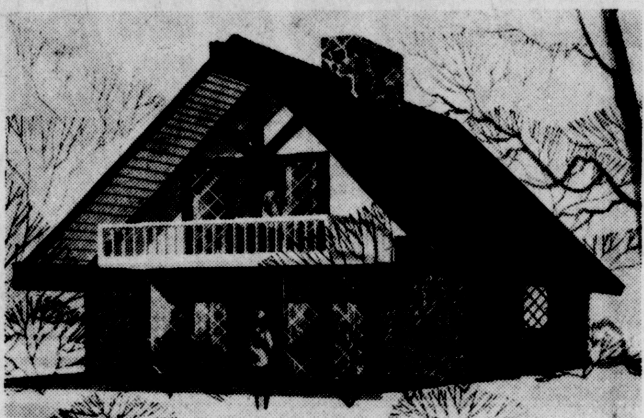

"In such a room there are lamps with incandescent light as well as four-foot red and blue fluorescents used on the floor behind a sofa, at the moldings, beneath windows and directed up, giving the impression that red and blue are the ambience in the room and not the real light. The room has incredible atmosphere even as it provides safety and security with white light. It is sensual lighting - you see everyone and everyone looks wonderful."

To achieve some lighting effects Bisdale often uses filters. In the big Washington apartment of Carter Brown, curator of the National Gallery, he used low-voltage fixtures and a series of taupe filters with bright lights on wood surfaces in the living room. The room is flooded with color when Brown is entertaining and the lighting was especially planned for his great paintings, Bisdale contends. On the terrace of the apartment the lighting was planned "to complement the nautical architecture of the building."

After a short stint in college - he knew it was not for him - Bisdale went to art school where he soon excelled in color and design. His first interview with a well-known Fifth Avenue window designer gave him his first break. Under his tutelage he developed a lighting theme that is seen in many of the better stores now on that avenue - he put them there - pin-spots of white with an aura of color. He has also done the homes of many of those store executives.

"In the home of the average person, though, a series of

Even with a full pig, I got an empty feeling inside.

United States Savings Bonds vs. the Piggy Bank. 1. If the Piggy Bank is stolen, you lose what's in it. That's the way it is with cash. If a Bond is stolen, you get a new one. 2. A Piggy Bank is easy for even its owner to rob. But Bonds can be bought through your Payroll Savings Plan at work, and a little is taken out of each check before you can get your hands on it. 3. The Piggy Bank may look kind and generous, but it won't give you any interest. A U.S. Savings Bond yields 6%, when held to 5-year maturity. 4. The Piggy Bank money just sits there. A Bond helps your country. In summary, you might wonder why grown folks would even use Piggy Banks. It's so much smarter to buy Bonds. Avoid that empty feeling. Buy U.S. Savings Bonds.

Series E Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (4 1/2% the first year). Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Oil Roasted vs Dry Roasted

My daughter eats an enormous number of dry-roasted peanuts because she insists they're not fattening. I know they're not as fattening as the oil-roasted ones, but can you tell me what the difference is in calories?

Mrs. L.H., N.Y.

Dear Mrs. H.: This was asked in the Journal of the American Medical Association by Dr. Dwight K. Oxley of Wichita, Kan.

He wrote: "Advertising literature suggests that dry-roasted nuts are more suitable for weight-reduction diets than conventionally roasted nuts. Is there any real difference between the two with regards to nutritional and caloric content?"

The answer given by the AMA Department of Food and Nutrition is interesting. Dr. Herman L. Dillon said, "There is very little difference between dry-roasted and conventionally oil-roasted nuts. The term 'dry' simply means that oil has not been added during the roasting process.

"One ounce of peanuts, whether dry or oil-roasted, contains the same 8.6 grams of protein."

And this is particularly interesting. Dr. Dillon continues: "28 grams of oil-roasted peanuts contain 180 calories, while 28 grams of dry-roasted peanuts contain 172 calories."

He adds: "Nuts are high in fat and calories and should not be encouraged in a weight-reduction diet, since they might prevent nutrient needs from being met."

Is a "tension headache" caused by physical or emotional tension?

Mrs. E.W., Nev.

Dear Mrs. W.:

The technical concept of "tension headache" is one that is caused when the muscles of the neck, the face and the scalp are pulled or stretched. This is an organic, or physical, condition.

Yet the term has been expanded to include emotional strains and stresses that are so often associated with headache.

My adult son continuously scratches his head. The dandruff spreads all over his shoulders. Can you suggest a remedy?

Mr. L.L., Penn.

Dear Mr. L.:

The scaling of the skin of the scalp may be caused by local inflammation, psoriasis, acne or many other localized skin diseases.

Only after the skin is carefully examined by a dermatologist (skin specialist) can the exact cause be determined. There are now many excellent remedies which, when used intensively, can control the underlying condition and bring comfort from the itching.

Court still busy with integration

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than 21 years after the Supreme Court outlawed segregation in public schools, the court still is studying questions of segregated education and the U.S. Civil Rights Commission is launching a public defense of busing to achieve racial balance.

The nation's highest court handed down decisions in four busing-related school desegregation cases Tuesday, then agreed to consider whether a private school can legally refuse to enroll black students.

Meanwhile, the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights, which did not even exist when the high court handed down its landmark desegregation ruling in 1954, said it would sponsor public hearings, surveys and conferences in the next year in an effort to battle what officials see as a threat to anti-discrimination efforts.

Commission chairman Arthur S. Flemming said sentiment against the busing of children to achieve racial balance threatens "the whole civil rights movement" and that panel members will fight antibusing amendments in Congress.

In addition to agreeing to hear arguments in the private schools case, the Supreme Court upheld lower court decisions that could require busing to desegregate schools in Omaha, Neb., and in three St. Louis-area school districts.

The court also announced it would review a lower court decision holding that the Pasadena, Calif., board of education still is bound by a 1970 desegregation order although board members claim their schools now are fully integrated.

The private school case was appealed to the high court by two private Virginia schools. Lawyers for the Fairfax-Brewster School of Bailey's Crossroads, Va., and Bobbe's Private School in Arlington, Va., say federal anti-discrimination laws do not apply to private institutions.

If the laws do apply, the lawyers say that would amount to violations of constitutional rights to privacy and freedom of association.

In the Pasadena case, school officials say they have been in compliance for the last four years with an order that demanded that no school in the district have "a majority of any minority students."

The Pasadena case may prompt the court to decide how long school districts under court-ordered mixing plans should be required to keep reporting their desegregation efforts to federal judges.

In the two cases the high court refused to review, the justices let stand decisions by the U.S. Circuit Court in St. Louis.

The Court of Appeals had ordered Omaha school officials to have a desegregation plan in effect by next fall, using busing if necessary.

In the St. Louis area case, the Supreme Court refused to review a court-ordered merger of three Missouri school districts calling for busing of children across existing district lines.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1♥	Pass	2♥	Pass
2♠	Pass	3♠	Pass
4♠

Good bidding will get you to the best contract a very high percentage of the time. Every bid you make sends partner a message, to which he attempts to reply in kind, so that your side can exchange maximum information. Eventually, one player or the other chooses the final contract.

Thus, when South opens one heart, he announces the values for an opening bid, though he does not indicate all at once just how strong his hand is. North's raise to two hearts is much more precise. It states he has from 6 to 9 points, which may or may not include distributional values.

Two spades announces values above a minimum opening bid, since otherwise South would pass. It furthermore proposes spades as trumps in case North has better spades than hearts.

Three spades guarantees four-card support and a willingness to go to game. Four spades ends the auction.

There is one big disadvantage to such precise exchanges of information. While the players are sending these messages back and forth for their own edification, their opponents are busily listening in, and what they overhear often helps them to find the best defense.

A shrewd West took advantage of the bidding here to find the killing opening lead. He started with the ace and another heart, and South could not stop him from giving East a heart ruff later on to put the contract down one.

West reasoned that North-South had at least eight hearts for the opening heart bid and raise. This meant that East had specifically one or two hearts and could ruff a heart either immediately or eventually.

Had South been less scientific and jumped directly to four hearts over two, he could not have been stopped from scoring a game.

Charge pair in slaying

BEDFORD HEIGHTS, Ohio (AP) — Aggravated murder charges were issued Tuesday in warrants against two Cleveland men in connection with the shooting death of a Bedford Heights policeman.

Police here said the warrants were for George E. Clayton, 18, and Michael Manns, 19. Both also were charged with aggravated robbery.

The men are being sought in connection with the Monday slaying of Sgt. William A. Prochazka, who interrupted a robbery at the H. Blonder Co. Police said they believe four men were involved in the robbery.

For Rotary foundation monies

Challenge issued to Rotary Club

A challenge was issued to members of the Washington C.H. Rotary Club during their regular weekly luncheon meeting Tuesday in the Country Club to become more involved in the Rotary foundation program.

Allen Johnson, past president of the Dayton Rotary Club who served as a Rotary district governor in 1970-1971, urged members of the local organization to increase their contributions to the foundation program which provides scholarships for deserving college graduate students to further their education abroad.

The foundation program, which was launched in 1917, has provided scholarships worth $27 million for 8,712 college graduate students during the past 28 years.

"Those receiving the scholarships are not only students but they are goodwill ambassadors," Johnson stated.

The scholarships are worth between $6,000 and $10,000 each and include living expenses and transportation costs. The scholarship winners are given the opportunity to choose the nation in which they wish to further their education.

In recent years, a group study exchange program has been added to the foundation for undergraduate students on a specialized basis. Mike Boylan, a former teacher in the Washington C.H. School District, participated in one of the group study programs in Japan several years ago.

Boylan has been the only person to participate in the foundation program from the Washington C.H. Rotary Club and the organization is presently seeking prospective scholarship recipients in the district. Only one student in the district is selected for the scholarship program.

In addition to the undergraduate program, foundation scholarships for technical study and teachers of mentally and physically handicapped students were added as special programs recently.

Children of Rotary Club members are not eligible to participate in the program and the foundation program is financed by contributions from individual clubs.

The meeting was conducted by club president William E. Williams and the program was arranged by Robert Haigler.

Guests were Mrs. Robert Haigler, Mrs. Colin Campbell and Mrs. L.M. (Pete) Hayes. Student guests were Dave Knisley of Miami Trace High School and Tim Dove of Washington Senior High School. Visiting Rotarians were Dr. Walter Felson, of Greenfield, Richare Kilian, of Mount Joy, Pa., Art Dick, Oltie Hockman and Edward Pennington, all of Mount Sterling, and Darrell French, of Wilmington.

Rhodes may shun Ohio mini-summit

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A mini-summit on Ohio's economic problems may proceed without participation by the office of Gov. James A. Rhodes, although he wants to know more about the idea.

Thomas J. Moyer, the governor's executive assistant, discussed the proposal in general terms Tuesday with its originator, House Speaker Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, and came away saying he has "reservations."

But Moyer said he told Riffe he would be willing to discuss it further after the speaker meets with Senate Majority Leader Oliver Ocasek, D-27 Akron, to work out "the details and the format."

The speaker proposed at a news conference last week that a standing committee from each house of the legislature meet with the governor's representatives for an economic conference which would report to the legislature no later than next Jan. 31. Riffe said he also wants economists to take part, along with representatives of business and industry.

The speaker offered the plan two days after the defeat on the Nov. 4 ballot of the Republican governor's four-part economic recovery program. He said the state's elected officials need to follow up with a search for alternatives to unemployment, welfare, and other problems enumerated by the governor.

However, Moyer said he is "not so sure that the governor or his representatives should sit down with two standing committees of the legislature after such a hard fought campaign. Many legislators campaigned against Rhodes' issues, although Riffe was 'neutral.'"

Moyer said Riffe gave assurances
